THE CAPITAL.

WASHINGTON, April 27, 1869.

No appointments were made to-day in the departments. It is said a large number of clerks will be removed the last day of this month.

The ante-room of the Executive Mansion continues to be daily crowded with visitors, both male and female.

Mrs. Grant's reception to-day was attended by many ladies and gentlemen, strangers and citizens.

The subject of tax on brokers' sales is still under consideration at the Bureau of Internal Revenue. A decision will soon be made.

SAN FRANCISCO APPOINTMENTS.

Intense excitement exists at San Francisco over the prospective change of officers in the United States Mint soon. Before the new officers can assume charge a thorough inventory must be had of all the stock on hand, including coin and such metals as are in the Mint awaiting coinage. When this is done the operations in the Mint must necessarily cease for a number of days. At the present time there is a very large supply of metals on hand, and to suspend working the Mint for a few days even would seriously embarrass commercial circles. In this condition of affairs efforts have been made to have the commissions of the new officers, recently confirmed by the Senate, withheld until such time as a transfer can be made without detriment to the business interests. President Grant received a long dispatch this morning from the officers of the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco, giving a full explanation of the condition of affairs, and asking his intervention in the matter. This dispatch closes as follows:

The Chamber respectfully but urgently prays that your Excellency will take such action in the premises as will protect the coast and country at large against the calamity of stopping, at this juncture, the mint upon which the country depends for three-fourths of its coin suppy, and upon which the coast is wholly dependent." In accordance with this request, it is understood the commissions for the new officers will be withheld for the present, and that the stoppage will not take place at this time.

PARAGUAYAN MATTERS.

The Sub Committee of the House Committee on Foreign Relations, charged with the investigation of indignities sufferred by the American legation in Paraguay, have had Mr. Peter C. Bliss before them for a week past, and expect to conclude the examination to-morrow. The testimony already taken will be printed in about a week, and members of the Committee say it will furnish a record, which for unprovoked and flagrant violation of immunities to Embassadors, and ferocious cruelties, has had no parallel for centuries. The Sub Committee will reconvene in New York, in September, to complete their investigations, after which they contemplate an excursion through the West Indies.

CHINA AND JAPAN.

Chinese Hatred of Foreigners—Latest News from Japan, &c.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—The intelligence from China is meagre. J. Ross Browne concurs with the Chinese government in declaring all mining illegal. The rumor that an Imperial edict will be issued, prohibiting the cultivation of the poppy in China, has caused great excitement among opium dealers.

A report was in circulation among the people of Chefoo that the troops were ordered to attack and murder all foreigners on the Chinese new year's. Preparations were being made for resistance. The hatred for foreigners appears to be gaining ground throughout China.

New and extensive coal fields have been discovered near Payang lake. The Yangse river rose to the unusual height of thirty-two feet at Hong Kow, in consequence of recent heavy rains. Baron Richthofer started for Chifoo via the Grand canal, for the purpose of examining the mineral regions of Shantung.

News from North Japan confirm the reported recapture of the Islands of Ladoo and Tsugora, by the opponents of the present Government. Several more of the leading Daimos have joined the rebels.

Osaka is in a continuous state of alarm. Numerous bands of the Takuyaway clan are in the vicinity, endeavoring to incite the populace to revolt. It is deemed necessary in the foreign settlements to post soldiers at the English consulate, custom house and bonded warehouses.

The Mikado intends returning to Yeddo in a few days. He has issued instructions to the principal Daimos who desire to meet him there. It is believed his intention is to make Yeddo his permanent residence henceforward.

The government of Japan has granted the right of export of copper under the ad valorem duty of five per cent.

The ram Stonewall was transferred to the Mikado's Government March 8th.

The Japan Times states that four of the most powerful Daimos in the empire, Satisuma, Chaisin, Hison and Losa, have decided to transfer their armies to the Mikado, thus resigning their territorial supremacy.

The Japan papers published President Grant's inaugural.

Political—Ship's Crew Murdered by Indians—The Finishing of the Central Pacific Railway, &c., &c.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—The Democratic Convention of Washington Territory met at Vancouver April 22, and nominated Governor Moore as Delegate to Congress.

It is ascertained beyond a doubt that the crew of the bark John Bright, wrecked at Nattka Sound, were murdered by the Indians, several decapitated bodies of white men having been found in that vicinity. It is deemed necessary that the Government send a gunboat there for the protection of the whites.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Visitors have commenced congregating in the vicinity of the end of the Central Pacific Railroad, to witness the laying of the last rail and driving of the last spike in the Pacific Railroad, which will take place on Friday or Saturday next.

AFFAIRS IN CANADA.

Duties on Trading Vessels—Protection of Fisheries.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

OTTAWA, April 27.—In the House of Commons to-day, Mr. Keeler asked whether the government intended to enforce similar taxes and duties on American vessels trading in Canadian ports as were levied on Canadian vessels trading in American ports. Mr. Rose said the matter was under consideration. The government does not pledge themselves to any particular line of policy. In reply to an inquiry by a member, Mr. McDonald said that it would be impossible to supply the Welland Canal with water from Lake Erie until August.

Mr. Coffin inquired whether the Government intended to place an armed force on the coast of the Dominion, to prevent American fishermen from fishing in Canadian waters during the coming season. The Premier said he understood the Admiral in command had considerable force on the ground for the purpose of protecting the fisheries, but desired Mr. Coffin to allow the question to stand.

SECOND EDITION.

FOUR O'CLOCK A. M.

NEW YORK CITY.

Newspaper Expose—Political Maneuvering of John Russell Young, Managing Editor of the Tribune—His Correspondence, Revealing His Operations—Suit for Libel—Break in Croton Water-Pipe.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, April 27, 1869.

The Sun of to-day contains a long attack in relation to John Russell Young. Commencing with his initiation into the Tribune as writing editor, it progresses to his appointment as managing editor, when he wrote the following letter:

Office of Tribune, June 23d, 1866—Dear Charley: In the harness at last; took command yesterday; signed all the checks, and sent two men to Richmond and two to Canada. You see I am in up to my eyes. I find the feeling good. The newspapers speak kindly of me. In the office the feeling is kind, but I fancy a hidden dislike in one or two cases. I have, too, my share of stock in the paper and hope to be chosen Trustee at the July meeting. Gay will make trouble, like the bull dog, boldly. He will not like the burrowing rat, I am afraid, still I will do my duty and trust to the God who has carried me thus far through worse trouble. Tell McConnell to come to New York as soon as he can give me the advice I spoke of. He must not allude to me as an old friend. I will put him in and let him work up. Send him on. How about your own matter. Thine always. JOHN (with a flourish.)

To Charles McC., Philadelphia.

Next followed, says the Sun, an inundation of carpet-baggers from Philadelphia and crowding of the old staff to the wall, their places being filled by details from the body guard. On January 1st, 1867, the ship was overhauled. Her timbers had been fearfully strained. The freights for the trip had exceeded a million dollars; profits were less than $11,000. It was the most unprofitable voyage that the old ship had ever sailed through. The philosopher's influence, murmurs of the discontented owners were silenced, and the Captain retained. On January 14th, 1867, he wrote as follows:

"Dear Charley: The stockholders had their meeting to-day and my report was approved by a vote of eighty-two shares to ten. Although I spent $88,000 more than Gay, I made a report which was highly complimented and had everything my own way, having no trouble, and am stronger than ever. Meeting is just over. Thought you would like to know. [Signed.] Ever, JNO."

In the meantime he discovers that the stockholders who thus strongly endorsed him were a set of old fogies. On the 8th of May he writes Charley:

Office of the Tribune, Editorial Department, New York, May 8, 1867: Strange how people like to go into successful things. I am doing so here, keeping my own like a rock, notwithstanding a current of opposition from old fogies. I shall whip them all yet, but it means a hard battle. Well, well, it seems that all life shall be a battle to me and that I can only get through the world by storming batteries. I, who love peace. I am well, but lonely and desolate. I work very hard and keep working. I have a story to tell you about McFarland.

Affectionately. JOHN.

The ship was prepared for a new voyage, all her light sails taken in, and the captain had instructions from head quarters to keep his vessel reefed. Next followed the starting, of the Philadelphia Star, and not long afterward the Philadelphia Morning Post. The Post was an expensive craft, and needed considerable bracing to keep her afloat. A call in the name of the Tribune was made on the Union League of Philadelphia. Three days after she was launched, the following letter was written to her supercargo:

Tribune Office, N. Y., Oct. 8, 1867.—Dear Charley: I have written to Fell and Baker to pave the way to getting money out of the League for the Post. I have done it as a Tribune man, urging it for the good of the cause. I hope good will come of it. Your dispatches are cheerful. I hope they represent more than your enthusiasm. If anything can live by pushing, the Post must live. How are you with Forney? Why don't you send me the Post? I have only had the first number. Have it come regularly and exchange it with the Tribune.

[Signed.] JOHN.

A subsequent letter.

Office Tribune, Wednesday—Dear Charley: As a paper the paper improves. Wednesday was a beauty. Stockton seems to make it spin. I write him by this mail. I am laying my traps for a $5,000 loan. I don't see my way to it, but depend upon it, I am working hard for it. The more I am in the Post, the more enthusiastic I feel about it. I see fortune, fame, everything in its success. Read John Clayton's note. It is not kind. He is rich, and I am sure I can hit him slightly. He seems to like money, however. Leonard W. Jerome said to me the secret of wealth was, not so much to hold on as to let go. [Signed.] JNO.

John Clayton's note referred to above was as follows:

Philadelphia, No. 717 Walnut street, October 15, 1867.—My Dear Young: If it is not a State secret, would like to know if you are the New Yorker of the Tribune, said to be the strong man in the Morning Post, a penny a paper of this city. I like the ring of it, and if you have the rope in your hand will like it better still, and probably will drop crumbs into your hopper more frequently.

Resp'ly yours, JNO. CLAYTON.

To J. Russell Young, Esq.

This note, which was sent to Charley with the one dated Wednesday, and printed above, was endorsed: "I wrote, saying you and J. D. S. were in the thing, and I was merely a kind of behind the scenes, friend and backer. J. R. Y."

After the Post had been afloat two weeks, Chief Justice Chase, a prominent candidate for the Presidency, was invited to become a reader of it, as will be seen by the following dispatch of the 22d of October, 1867:

New York, Ooctober, 22, 1867.—John D. Stockton, Philadelphia: Please send to Chase, Washington, a file of Posts from the beginning. I have written him to be sure. In Philadelphia on Friday. Am going to see him.

[Signed,] J. R. Y.

How he succeeded with Mr. Chase is unknown, but it is reported the crew lived on Salmon some weeks. The real cause of the above dispatch is to be seen in the following letter, written October 17, 1867:

Tribune, Editorial Room, Friday, Midnight.—Dear Charley: I don't say if anybody can win with money, we must win without. I am sure the manna will fall when we are hungry. Our stars have stood by us. They never desert a man at 27. John McC. was here. I strongly advised against his resigning. Told him to wait until he was kicked out. Nothing like having a friend at Court. What do you mean by Forney being mollified? What do you mean by Chase men feeling us? On that keep me well informed. I want to work that way for money. I am coming your way on Friday. Then I go through to see Chase for the Post. I am trying to lay pipe for Cameron, Grow, and lots of people. Grow, who wants to be Vice President, has promised me help already. When I have sold my last boots and am beggared, shall say if about Post, not till then.

[Signed.] JNO.

Supplies, says the Sun, ran short when the Chase movement ran out. It became necessary to find new friends for the Post. Ex-Governor Curtin was a prominent candidate for the Republican nomination for Vice President. An attempt was made to strike him for $5,000, but the Governor didn't think the influence of the flag-ship in New York and her two tenders in Philadelphia worth that amount. Trenches were dug and approaches were made to the Governor in regular parallels. The seige was a strong one, but unsuccessful.

The Sun continued: The affections of Mr. Greely's Commodore for the war Governor experienced a sudden change. He wrote letters to the pure patriot of Harrisburg, ridiculed the Governor, belittled Grow, belied Kelly, sneered at Governor Fenton, displayed half a dozen others in a single letter, and thus getting Lochiel in a moneylending humor, soon found a willing purchaser. Cameron was caught in his own trap and beaten at his own game. He bought the Philadelphia Post and the editorial influence of the Tribune, and paid therefor $5,000. It seems, however, the first purchase did not hold, for subsequently an additional $5,000 was demanded and paid; and that was followed by a final payment, so far as the books show, of $2,250, making in all $12,250 for the Philadelphia Post and influence of the New York Tribune. On November 17th, the Tribune Commodore wrote the following letter, on Tribune note paper:

Dear Charley: I have been all in the dumps these few days about our poor little baby. Such a healthy child, if we had more milk. I am afraid this care is making me old. Certainly it shows me the sternness and absolute duty of life more than ever. I had counted so much on Jay Cook, not altogether, but vastly. My next move will be on Simon Cameron. I have a promise from Grow to give me five thousand dollars. He wants Vice President and building up in Pennsylvania. He said he would give me this after the New York election. Any man can do great things with money. We have done great things without and must do them again. I think our friends should help us more, but perhaps those who help themselves are best helped in the long run. Until after the election I am tied here. Even then it is not wise for me to go away, as I have many Tribune problems to solve this winter. After the election I shall address myself to the Post exclusively. Old fellow, we have had many hard pullings on in life. This is no harder than a hundred others, and we are bound to reach deep water. Announce in the Post special arrangements will be made to have the New York returns early. Say you will be happy to see your friends. I will not press a dispatch, and you shall have twenty; all that go to Washington.

[Signed.] JOHN.

In November, 1867, Mr. Greeley's Commodore wrote the following letter:

Monday, Midnight—Dear Charley: I am cleaned out, dead broke, busted, and must look elsewhere for new supplies. All my salary is gone. Please send me receipts for payment of money advanced. Don't forget my expense credit. My last trip to Washington was to see Cameron for the Post, and to get him in the money lending humor. J. D. S. should strike him for a couple of thousands and hub it in jointly into the concern. I talked to Cameron two hours about the Post. He is filled with the desire of breaking down Forney. Credit me with $1,000 on account of the Hoe note, and enter it as money paid to the Star on account of indebtedness. Impress upon J. D. S. the necessity of getting money out of Cameron. Also see J. B. about his obligations. He wrote me he owed to-day Forney $500, Jessup $700, Hoe $1,000. I don't know how in Heaven's name he got through. I paid Hoe, but Jessup's bill is really ours, and we have used of J. B's. money, so that he can't pay J. W. F. Please go around and see him and confer with him, and if you get Thomas note cash, help him. The paper looks splendid. Glad you get Associated Press news; that's gay.

Signed, JNO.

Some further letters follow, and the Sun says it is understood that at this time Cameron was bled to the amount of $5,000. This kept the crew of the Post in salt horse and duff until April, when the horizon was again swept, Cameron and Grow discerned, and the leeches again applied to the former. The Commodore kept two strings to his bow. He played fast and loose with Grow and Cameron, as the following extract from a letter written to "Dear Charley," March 10th, 1868, will show:

Sunday—Dear C: Post looks well. Grow being Chairman State Republican Committee is a good thing for us; likewise the defeat of Cameron. It will make him work the Post more necessary to him. Yours, JNO.

Still in trouble. Another swoop was made on Cameron. On April 24th, a letter was written to Dear C., telling him how to form a stock company according to the laws of Pennsylvania.

Tribune Editorial Department, June 17*th*, 1868—Dear C: My impression is that we are doing so well that we had better make arrangements with Don Cameron, in the shape of a loan, giving him Post stock for security, rather than to sell any interest in it. I have contracted to deliver him one hundred and twenty-five shares within thirty days from the 13th of May. I think for $5,000. I think on this contract I have raised and paid out to Blakely $2,500, and shall probably pay $500 more on account of that Jessup & Moore bill, which will leave $2,000 to be applied to any purpose that is deemed best. If you have the charter all right, why should there be any delay in forming the company?

[Signed.] J. R. Y.

The Sun says: So much for the Commodore's efforts to keep his vessels in fighting trim. With $12,000 from Cameron, $3,000 from Grow, and $1,000 which it is positively asserted he received from Attorney General Brewster, $16,300 in all, the ships kept afloat.

Next follows correspondence between J. W. Simonton, Agent of New York Associated Press, and Mr. Young, as to a leak in cable dispatches of the Association, in which Mr. Young declares there is no leak in the Tribune office.

The Sun adds: In the meantime Mr. Simonton resorted to trap the dispatches. He sent a cable dispatch to the Tribune, dating it a day behind the dispatch sent to the Herald and Times. It appeared in the Post with the Tribune date. Mr. Simonton then sent to the Tribune a false dispatch, announcing the escape of Garibaldi from prison. He corrected it after the line to Philadelphia was closed. The dispatch did not appear in the Tribune, but did in the Post. On November 5th, Young writes to Simonton as follows:

"Notwithstanding the paper you show me, I am far from thinking the news goes from the Tribune. I have closely examined all the men who have either directly or indirectly communication with the manifold news. I am convinced they are not cognizant of the Post or any arrangement of the Post."

On the day before, the following dispatch left the Tribune office:

New York, Nov. 4, 1868—To Chas. McClintock, Morning Post: It is important that you or Stockton should come over to New York to-morrow, on your Associate Press business

JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG, [D. H.]

Stockton left immediately. He arrived in the evening and immediately went to the Tribune office. On November 5th he sent to Philadelphia the following:

3:30 A. M.—Dear Charley: Have weathered the gale. I think Clements all right. Have written him to send while Amos is sick. Don't think it necessary for Mc to go on. Clements is in the affair now. I think it likely Amos had told him all about it. J.

In view of his letter to Mr. Simonton, says the Sun, the following epistle from Mr. Greeley's Commodore to the boys on the Post, written before Simonton's first letter, will prove highly interesting:

New York, October 9, 1867.—Dear Boys; Have just sent a condensation of a column of cable and all else. I did not send election details, supposing you would have them from the Press. I hope I did not err in this, as I might have given you a column. The cable was good, and I sent, to make sure signing Warner's name. I was disappointed not to have Tuesday's Post. I did not say to J. D. S. how pleased I was to have him go on so promptly. Your dispatches were as invigorating as wine. I sincerely hope we have not blundered in this business, and I wait for news with feverish anxiety. Telegraph me constantly and promptly your wants. I will put the Tribune behind you if I can only know how. I want you to write daily all your suggestions, ideas, hopes and fears.

JNO.

On the 4th of February, 1868, Young writes to "Dear Charley" as follows:

I am very busy. Things look ripe for a change, which will, I think, enable you to do greater things in the world than any you have dreamed of.

Yours, JNO.

A few days after this he visited his "dear Charley" in Philadelphia, and said he would not be surprised if inside of six months "Charley" would be running the Tribune. In this connection, we have the following note from "Charley," written to a gentleman in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, April 25, 1868.—Dear Sir: Since Mr. Young assumed the duties of the position he now holds on the New York Tribune, he has repeatedly assured me, to the time when the trouble commenced in one of his daily newspapers in this city, in August last, I would be the publisher of the Tribune. He said Mr. Sinclair was an old fogy, like Mr. Brown, the manager of the Press in this city, and the stockholders would soon make a change. In fact the last time he visited me at my present residence, shortly before the Morning Post moved into its new building at 7th and Jayne streets, he stated while sitting at the breakfast table every thing was working nicely, and inside of six months I would be publisher of the New York Tribune, and keep myself in readiness to leave Philadelphia at short notice. Respectfully,

CHAS. MCCLINTOCK.

The Sun finally gives a slight account of the alleged attempt of Young to get into Grant's Cabinet and of the placing of all the original letters before Horace Greeley on Friday last. He read them through carefully. He didn't rise to his feet in a fit of passion and smash the bust of Lincoln adorning his sanctum, neither did he break the chairs, dismember the table or split the desk. He simply threw himself back in his chair, drew a long breath, and said: "Well, Sam, this is mighty interesting reading." Three hours after he left the Tribune office, jamming his black hat on the back of his head, exclaiming, "Well, well! sold again, for the eighty-sixth time!"

The Commodore tendered Mr. Greeley his resignation, when he learned that the underwriters and supercargo had heard of his management of the craft, but the resignation was not received.

LIBEL AGAINST THE SUN.

John Russell Young, Managing Editor of the Tribune, appeared to-day before Judge Tappan, of the Supreme Court, and made affidavit against Chas. A. Dana, of the Sun, for an alleged false, scandalous and malicious libel, bringing damages for $100,000. Mr. Dana was arrested this evening at his house and held to bail in $10,000. It is understood other arrests will be made to-morrow on the charge of conspiracy and libel.

The Croton main water pipe, corner of Fifty-ninth street and Fourth avenue, bursted about twelve o'clock last night, causing much damage. About twenty feet of Fifty-ninth street and one side of the Fourth avenue railroad track were carried away. The water rushed over the embankment, which forms both sides of Fifty-ninth street, inundating a number of shanties, and some of the occupants narrowly escaped drowning.

The eleven o'clock train from Jersey City for Newark, N. J., ran off the track near Jersey City, in consequence of a switch having been carelessly misplaced. None of the passengers were injured.

Rev. Dr. Paddock has accepted the Rectorship of Grace Church, this city.

A fire broke out this morning on the fourth floor of No. 82 Warren street, occupied by J. Anderson & Co. as a cap manufactory. Their loss is estimated at $2,000. The third and second floors, occupied by H. Newman and Ganz & Klein, were damaged by water $2,400. Damage to building $500.

Illinois Press Association.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MOBILE, Ala., April 27.—The Illinois Press Association, numbering some hundred and twenty gentlemen and about the same number of ladies, will leave Mobile by special train for Montgomery to morrow morning. They go to accept of the hospitalities of that city, tendered them two days since. Their visit here, which lasted three days, has done a vast deal to promote good feeling between the sections. They have received great and continuous hospitality from the city government, Board of Trade and citizens representing all shades of political opinion. Of the party one and all express themselves perfectly delighted with what they have seen for themselves in their progress south. They are surprised at the fertility of the soil, at the climate and at the opening for industrial manufacturing as well as commercial and agricultural enterprises. In all their speeches, in all their private expressions of opinion, one and all have declared that a new light has dawned on them. They would not have believed what they have seen for themselves. The Radical editors are surprised at the peaceful condition of the country and its political quietness. The Daily Register has opened its columns to all parties, and is filled with these expressions from some of the most unswerving Republicans. To day the Board of Trade gave a steamboat excursion down the harbor, through the shipping, and a collation was given on board. There was a further renewal of good fellowship, and a sincere desire to be at peace. The western editors will go from Montgomery homeward via the Columbus, Mississippi and Mobile and Ohio Railroads.

LINCOLN.

[FROM THE ODE RECITED AT THE HARVARD COMMEMORATION, JULY 21, 1865.]

Life may be given in many ways,
And loyalty to Truth be sealed
As bravely in the close as the field,
So bountiful is Fate;
But then to stand beside her,
When craven churls deride her,
To front a lie in arms and not to yield,
This shows, methinks, God's plan
And measure of a stalwart man,
Limbed like the old heroic breeds,
Who stands self-poised on manhood's solid earth
Not forced to frame excuses for his birth,
Fed from within with all the strength he needs.
Such was he, our Martyr-Chief,
Whom late the Nation he had led,
With ashes on her head,
Wept with the passion of an angry grief:
Forgive me, if from present things I turn
To speak what in my heart will beat and burn,
And hang my wreath on his world-honored urn.
Nature, they say, doth dote,
And cannot make a man
Save on some worn-out plan,
Repeating us by rote:
For him her Old World moulds aside she threw,
And, choosing sweet clay from the breast
Of the unexhausted West,
With stuff untainted shaped a hero new,
Wise, steadfast in the strength of God, and true.
How beautiful to see
Once more a shepherd of mankind indeed,
Who loved his charge, but never loved to lead;
One whose meek flock the people joyed to be,
Not lured by any cheat of birth,
But by his clear-grained human worth,
And brave old wisdom of sincerity!
They knew that outward grace is dust;
They could not choose but trust
In that sure-footed mind's unfaltering skill,
And supple tempered will
That bent like perfect steel to spring again and thrust.
His was no lonely mountain-peak of mind,
Thrusting to thin air o'er our cloudy bars,
A sea-mark now, now lost in vapors blind;
Broad prairie rather, genial, level lined,
Fruitful and friendly for all human kind,
Yet also nigh to heaven and loved of loftiest stars.
Nothing of Europe here,
Or, then, of Europe fronting mornward still,
Ere any names of Serf and Peer
Could Nature's equal scheme deface:
Here was a type of the true elder race,
And one of Plutarch's men talked with us face to face.
I praise him not, it were too late;
And some innative weakness there must be
In him who condescends to victory
Such as the present gives, and cannot wait,
Safe in himself as in a fate.
So always firmly he:
He knew to bide his time,
And can his fame abide,
Still patient in his simple faith sublime,
Till the wise years decide.
Great captains, with their guns and drums
Disturb our judgment for the hour,
But at last silence comes:
These all are gone, and standing like a tower,
Our children shall behold his fame,
The kindly-earnest, brave, foreseeing man,
Sagacious, patient, dreading praise, not blame,
New birth of our new soil, the first American.

—A correspondent of the New York Sun says that the mysterious bullets which we now and then hear of as going through windows without any explosive sound, are not shot from air guns but from a sort of improvement on the crossbow, with an india-rubber string which gives great force to the ball and makes but little noise. The weapon is a dangerous one, more so, the writer thinks, than the air gun, and can be had at many of the gun and toy shops in New York.

How Spain has Degenerated Under the Spaniards.

[Madrid Correspondence London Times.]

Of all the inland cities of Europe, Granada is the one that can boast of the most grand and most lovely situation. She has an Alpine view rivaling that of Turin, Berne, or Saltzburg; an irrigated plain exceeding the fertility of that of Milan. There are elms in the Alameda and in the avenues to the Alhambra of more than English growth, and orange groves in its gardens of tropical luxuriance. With the exception of the sea breeze, Granada enjoys all that the most sheltered, and, at the same time, most invigorating climate can give. The spot sums up whatever may be conducive to the utmost development, and the most unalloyed enjoyment of human life. Yet to what condition has the Spanish Government contrived to bring even this inextinguishable Granada! The present population of the province is 441,404. Under its Moorish ruler, Ibn-l-Ahmar, in the thirteenth century, the town alone numbered a population of 400,000, exclusive of a garrison of 60,000 men. The population of the town now scarcely reaches 70,000. The wealth of the province, according to the latest valuation, hardly exceeds $850,000. It is mostly agricultural and mineral. Modern statistical works tell us:

"There is no trade save a greatly reduced exportation of spirits, oil, and fruit. There is not one single manufacturer of silk or linen, yet there was a time under Moorish rule when the silk trade occupied thousands of hands, when the produce was sent to Florence, Pisa, Genoa, and the Levant, when the plains and hills were clothed with mulberry. The produce of each farm in the Vega yielded, on an average, about £200 a year, and the taxes paid by the farmer to the King amounted to about £20,000. The silk crops that belonged to the Spanish monarchs were farmed for the sum of 181,500 gold ducats a year; there were 130 mills and 300 villages, of which fifty contained mosques, and 50,000 men could be mustered from mountain and plain."

THE spring floods of 1869 have been unusually destructive. On the Connecticut river, the height of the water has only been exceeded four times in the last seventy years. In Hartford, the water on April 23d, at noon, was 26 feet 8 inches above low water mark. In 1854, the guage marked 30 feet. In Canada, the ice began to move out of the St. Lawrence on the night of April 22d, and the towns along the banks were seriously damaged, houses and embankments having been swept away and several lives lost. In New York State, along Black river and the lower part of Lake Ontario the floods were very violent. Factories' tanneries, dams and flumes were carried off. Near Watertown, a boom, restraining several acres of timber and flood wood, broke away from the chains, and carried off railroad bridges, mills, factories, furnaces and machine shops. In the John Brown tract, the flood was caused by the breaking of a heavy dam, built to restrain the water of a series of lakes, and forming a feeder to the New York canals. Near Utica, the State dam, at a reservoir covering 500 acres, gave way, and the flood destroyed mills and other property valued at $100,000. On the Hudson and Mohawk rivers, the innundations have been very extensive, and the streets of Albany, Troy and other cities in that vicinity have been covered with water several feet deep.

LION TAMERS.—Recently, in Belgium, the director of a circus, while performing the part of a wild beast tamer, was killed by a lioness. The regular lion tamer being ill, the circus director was so rash as to assume his duties, and having entered the cage succeeded for a time in making the lions go through their performances. Towards the close, when giving the animals raw meat, the director lost courage, and instead of keeping a firm eye on the beasts, as tamers are obliged to do, he trembled and made for the door of the cage. This movement was fatal. A large lioness was the first to pounce upon him, and in a few minutes the unfortunate man was torn to pieces.

Effects of Trees on Climate.

The ground on which stands Ismailia, a town of 6,000 inhabitants, on the Suez Canal route, and the headquarters of M. de Lesseps, was but a few years since a dry, sandy desert, on which rain was never known to fall. All is now transformed. The old, dried-up basin of Lake Timsah has been again filled with water from the Nile by a fresh water canal. Trees, shrubs, and plants of all descriptions grow rapidly wherever the soil is irrigated, and the artifical oasis widens fast. "Accompanying," writes a correspondent, "this extraordinary transformation of the aspect of the place, there has been a corresponding change in the climate. At the present time Ismailia, during eight months of the year, is probably the healthiest spot in Northern Egypt." The mean temperature for the four months, June to September, is 94 deg.; the following four months, 74 deg.; and the four winter months, 45 deg. "Until two years ago rain was unknown; but in the twelvemonth ending April last there were actually fourteen days on which rain fell; and no later than Sunday last there fell a tremendous shower of rain, a phenomenon which the oldest Arab had never previously witnessed." Rain ceases to fall on a country deprived of its forests, or only falls in violent storms. Here we see rain returning to the desert on restoring the trees.

HERE are Mrs. Stanton's expectations of the next two decades: "Twenty years! Why, I expect to be walking the golden streets of the New Jerusalem by that time, talking with Noah, Moses and Aaron about the flood, the Pharaohs, the journey through the Red Sea and the Wilderness. We shall be holding conventions by that time on the banks of the Jordan with Eve, Sarah, Rebecca, Huldah, Deborah, Miriam, Ruth, Naomi, Sheba, Esther, Vashti, Mary, Elizabeth, Priscilla, Phœbe, Tryphena and Tryphosa, and all the strong minded women honorably mentioned in sacred history. Do you know that I have vowed never to go disfranchised into the Kingdom of Heaven? In the meantime, I propose to to discuss sanitary and sumptuary laws, education and elections, in the councils of the American Republic. Twenty years? Why, every white male in the nation will be tied to an aporn-string by that time, while all the poets and philosophers will be writing essays on 'The Sphere of Man!'"

AS MRS. HANNAH MORE is said to have sat down in an arm chair which she believed had belonged to to Dr. Johnson, and, inspired there by the recollections of his genius, to have written a most pathetic ode to his chair, and eventually to have found out that he had never even been near the chair, so it should seem from the works of the latest writers on Venice that all the poets who have written about it have been in the position of Mrs. Hannah More, and have been addressing merely a Venice of their imagination. It is asserted in these latter days that no political prisoner ever crossed the Bridge of Sighs; that Marino Faliero never descended the Scala del Gigantici to be executed, because the staircase was not built until nearly a hundred years after his death; that no persons of importance were ever confined in the Piombi, and that none of the great merchants ever trod the present Rialto.

A SHEFFIELD, England, paper tells a strange story concerning a ritualist curate in a neighboring town, who is said to have resolved to simulate the death, burial and resurrection of the Saviour, and to have ordered a coffin to be got ready for him by Good Friday, expressing his intention to entomb himself from that day until Easter Sunday. The coffin was made of plain deal, with handles of rope, and was sent to the curate's lodgings, where his landlady, on seeing it, immediately fainted. It was placed in the reverend gentleman's study, and it is said he invited several friends to visit him during the week preceding good Friday, but his invitations were generally politely declined. Before the day of entombment arrived, the vicar heard of the affair, and the coffin was destroyed by his orders, much to the grief of the curate, who, however, declared his intention of procuring another.

A SPRIG OF ENGLISH NOBILITY, the youngest son of the Duke of Argyll, it is reported, has been placed by his father in a London tea-house, in order to learn how to become a British merchant. The Duke, it is stated, has adopted this course in consequence of the great pressure for positions under the Government, and the small number of vacancies. In the present headlong race for office in the United States, the conduct both of the father and of the son is worthy of earnest consideration. The Duke of Argyll is at the head of the Indian Department, and possesses abundant power to push his son into a lucrative office in India, or he might make use of his extensive political and high social connections to "take care" of Colin Campbell, a boy of sixteen, but he prefers to teach the youth that an active life of business is preferable to the uncertainty of a public office.

GOOD ABRAHAM LINCOLN once said that two years' residence in Paris was enough to demoralize an American, which is so true and so palpable. Alas! for a certain number of people, that he was not the first to make the remark. Stephen A. Douglas, long ago, when he was at Paris, laid down the doctrine to a party of friends, that no man ought to remain outside the democratic influences of his country more than two years. For he had observed that foreign influences, like sin, deadened a man's perceptions, and hindered him from measuring the depths of perversity into which he had fallen.

AN IMMENSE HAMMER.—The great steam hammer about to be set up in the Grant Locomotive Works will be, with the exception of that at the Paterson Iron Works, the largest in the city. The anvil plate weighs sixteen tons, and the cylinder, drop, &c., more than eleven tons, so that the whole will weigh nearly twenty-eight tons. The hammer will strike a blow with a force of three thousand pounds, or a ton and a half. The machine will be set up in two or three weeks, as soon as the blacksmith shop can be removed.—Paterson Press.

A RUMOR comes from Rome that the great Ecumeniual Council is to be indefinitely postponed, the Pope having despaired of securing unanimintry among the members of the Council on two points—Papal infallibility and the wickedness of liberalism in politics.

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases. Syphilis in all its forms, Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Orchitis, and all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhœa, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhœa, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P.M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh, Pa.

River and Weather.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

LOUISVILLE, April 27.—River falling with eight feet nine inches in the Canal. Weather clear and warm.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—Weather clear and pleasant.

RIVER NEWS.

The weather yesterday was warm and close, with strong indications of rain. The river continues to recede steadily, with scant six feet in the channel.

The St. Marys from Cincinnati and Kate Putnam from Nashville, arrived on Monday night with good trips. Among other items the St. Marys had over 1,200 bales of hay and straw.

The Tom Farrow and Barges, from St. Louis, were due last night and will probably be found in port this morning.

The R. C. Gray departed for Cincinnati and Louisville yesterday with a good trip. Pilots—Wm. Dorsey and J. Shouse.

The St. Marys departed for Cincinnati last evening, with about all the freight she could handle. She would doubtless have had a better cargo, had she not been delayed on her up trip.

The Gallatin departed for Parkersburg and the Julia No. 2 for Zanesville.

The Bayard was sold for $10,500, delivered at St. Louis. We have not heard as yet what boat, if any, will take her place in the Pittsburgh and Parkersburg trade.

There is now but a single new boat in construction at the landing, and it is intended for the Rio Grande river. It is probable however, that there will be fresh arrivals from the boat yards within the next few days.

The Grey Eagle, Capt. C. L. Brennan, is the regular packet far Parkersburg to-day, leaving promptly at noon.

The Glasgow, Capt. Andy Robinson, Jr., is announced to leave for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi, to-day. She is a first rate boat, being in tip-top condition for business, and Capt. Robinson and clerk Dravo are a strong team.

The Lorena, Capt. Sam Shuman, is also announced for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi forthwith, and she, too, is a good boat. Capt. Vandergrift still retains charge of the office.

The Sallie and Nick Wall were to leave St. Louis for Fort Benton on Saturday last.

The Robert Burns left St. Louis for Pittsburgh on Saturday, as did also the Great Republic for New Orleans.

The St. Louis Democrat of Monday is responsible for the following: Capt. R. C. Grow, the bold, has opened an office at Pittsburgh and acts as agent of the Northern Line, giving through receipts to St. Paul. Dick doesn't like to see so many boats going through from Pittsburgh to St. Paul.

The St. Louis Republican of Saturday says: Capt. Sam Dean arrived from Grand Tower yesterday, where he delivered the towboat Little Jim Rees to the Mt. Carbon Coal and Railroad Company. She will be used as a job boat around their coal yard. They have also purchased the powerful towboat Grand Lake, to be delivered at Cairo on her return to New Orleans. The price paid for their last purchase we believe was $30,000.

—The case of Jos. Croxton, for killing Benj. Miller in a Louisville faro bank, was called up in the Police Court of that city on Saturday and continued till Thursday. Both the men were pilots, and Croxton was at one time a member of the Kentucky Legislature. He killed a man named Hawthorn with a brick 20 years ago, in a bar room, was sentenced to the penitentiary, and was afterward pardoned by the Governor.

—The Madison Courier says: The ship yard has received more propositions for work within the last ten days than was ever before received in the same length of time since it has been in existence, save once, during the time of Mr. Alexander Temple, when four boats were contracted for in a single night, and propositions for three others received.

—The St. Louis Democrat of Saturday says: Business fair—not distressingly active. Pittsburgh boats leave here very light, with very small profits in prospective. The Messenger and Robert Burns were to leave last night in good trim for fast running. Several mountain boats leave to-day.

—A St. Louis telegram reports that Jno. White, the mate of the Evening Star, was arrested on the arrival of that boat here to-day, for complicity in the drowning of a colored deck hand, who it is said was thrown overboard from that steamer while enroute from New Orleans.

—The Waunita, Pittsburgh to St. Louis and Messenger, St. Louis to Pittsburgh, were at Cairo on Sunday.

IT IS intimated, and probably with some foundation, that Secretary BOREE will soon resign the Navy Department. No other Cabinet changes are likely to occur during the present season.

CANADIAN politicians scoff indignantly at the idea that the people of the Dominion are either to be persuaded or whipped into American annexation. The Mexicans love us more than they do.

ENGLISH JOURNALS comment, with a very just and forcible pertinency, upon the inconsistency between our own demand upon England, for reparation for her haste in recognizing the belligerency of our rebels, and the haste of our Representatives to urge Cuban recognition upon the President. Such a commentary was naturally to be expected.

WE do not know what caused the Post yesterday to quote an item citing the alleged bribery of Mr. MCMILLEA to secure the destruction of the XXIXth Judicial District. MR. MCMILLER is a Democrat, and his vote decided the question, but what capital our neighbor wishes to make out of the case remains to be seen. If PETER HERDIC fooled any "legislative roosters" with false promises, they were the gallinaceous fowls that scratched for plunder on the Democratic pile of gravel.

THE Wheeling Intelligencer vigorously denounces the political adventurers who are attempting to deceive the President into some sort of confidence in CARLISLE'S popularity at home. Our own acquaintance with West Virginia enables us to endorse its strictures with our cordial assent. The Carlisle game is the same that was tried on in the case of a recent nomination, which it was attempted to foist upon what President LINCOLN once called "the State of Allegheny." It was promptly exposed and defeated, while the fluttering of the wounded birds revealed the fact that resistance had told in the right quarter. The Wheeling paper is after birds of the same feather—rank carrion, all of them—and is likely to have the same success. From which ever of the two States these birds of prey direct their flight to the Capital, and fly they never so high, they are marked and known in the right quarter.

THE IMPECUNIOUS condition of Eastern journalism awakens our cordial sympathy. It seems that an editor can no longer make an honest living by his vocation, in the larger Atlantic cities, and is obliged to look to collateral "jobs," for the sums requisite to make both ends meet. A New York journalist stands arraigned, by his envious cotemporaries, for the little trifle of taking pay for the prostitution of his types to personal interests. Another, in a neighboring city, is driven, by the ungrateful public, into the real-estate line, and has actually been forced to wander far from home, touting for business, and hunting up bargains to be editorially advertised, no doubt with fat per centages. All this sort of thing is inexcusable in editors; it is only permitted to legislators and Congressmen. The people forgive those servants for any amount of unblushing peculation, but demand immaculate perfection from the journalist. This is hardly fair!

THE CUBAN FIASCO.

The Government has official advices, from the Spanish Minister, of the release of the passengers taken out of the Lizzie Major by Spanish naval officers. The fullest indemnity and satisfaction for that outrage has been frankly pledged by the Minister, whose instructions evidently direct him to remove, with promptitude, every just cause of complaint on the part of our Government and people.

The Mary Lowell case is in a very satisfactory train for settlement between the governments of England and Spain.

The President finds no just occasion for the issue of any proclamation invoking the faithful compliance of our people with the neutrality laws. The proof is regarded as altogether satisfactory that no organized expeditions have actually left, or are now preparing to leave, the country for Cuba. Reports to the contrary are known to be mere fabrications, in the insurgent interest. The drift, not only of popular sentiment, but of inclination in some official quarters, towards some more or less direct form of intervention in Cuban affairs, has been entirely checked. It is to the indiscretion of Mr. N. P. BANKS, and of his small party of sympathizing propagandists in the House, that they must themselves ascribe the disappointment of their own hopes. Their push in that direction, at the recent session, was flagrantly premature; its result was to awaken public attention to an existing tendency of affairs, to force a frank and loyal policy of international good faith upon the Administration, and to put the Spanish and Cuban authorities effectively upon their guard against any possibility of aggression upon American rights. Had those, who have politically sympathized with the insurgents, or those, a still more numerous class, who desire Cuban annexation by no matter what means, been politic enough to exclude the question from Congress altogether, and, as far as possible, had they kept the subject of annexation out of the American press, it would have been much better for their cause. Unquestionably, there would then have been a quiet but steady drift toward embarassing complications between the two governments, wherein was the only reasonable hope for their ultimate end. This Fabian policy did not suit General BANKS, who remembers only the tactics of his Red River campaign, and dashed blindly into irretrievable disaster for his cause.

The Cuban filibusters have lost ground which they will not recover under the present Administration. The struggle in Cuba has passed the dead-point of danger to the Spanish authority, which will soon be re-established above dispute in all parts of the island. President GRANT and his Cabinet stand unequivocally committed against any form of intervention, confirmed in that position by the moral sense and political wisdom of the country. The whole business of West Indian annexation is, for the present, "played out"—a slangy but expressive phrase—and Mr. Banks, with his little party of politicians and journalists, may ruminate, at leisure, upon the fiasco for which they have to thank themselves.

THE DEMOCRATIC SCRAMBLE.

A Cincinnati journal speaks of "AMASA PACKER," who, once having been a Governor of Pennsylvania, now declines to become again the Democratic candidate. The Pittsburgh Post, of yesterday, sneers at an "irresponsible telegram," purporting to be from Mauch Chunk, which "denies the declination" imputed to Hon. ASA PACKER. The first journal blundered through ignorance, and we would like to say the same for our neighbor. Here is the "irresponsible telegram" in question:

MAUCH CHUNK, April 24, 1869.

I have been informed that the Pittsburgh Post, on the authority of the Easton Express, announced my withdrawal from the Gubernatorial contest. I have authorized no one to make such announcement. My position is the same as given in the Chambersburg letter.

ASA PACKER.

The Post says that Judge PACKER don't want the nomination; that he won't "scramble" for it; and that he will only accept it if offered to him "unsolicited and with unanimity." The "irresponsible telegram" above quoted tells quite another story. Gen. CASS will not have the "scramble" all to himself. Judge PACKER may be "well up in years," as the Post charges, but he is young enough to hold his own in any Democratic "scramble," with Gen. CASS "or any other man." When our neighbor reprints this "irresponsible telegram" we presume he will continue to think that "the Judge talks about the matter in a very sensible fashion." We have also to suggest to the Post to take back that word "irresponsible." Such an epithet don't apply to anything that Judge PACKER says or does. We must insist that he is a citizen quite too eminent and irreproachable, and a Democrat altogether too highly distinguished, to be pooh pooh'ed away in this arrogant fashion by the friends of Gen. CASS.

We have an interest in this matter. The Post declares that the Democratic nominee will be elected. In that case we are entitled to a voice in the selection of the next Governor of this Commonwealth. We frankly confess that we are for CASS, all the time—for that candidate. But we protest against any unfair slurs upon his honorable competitor. We object to this indirect way of injuring Gen. CASS in Democratic estimation. We want to see him nominated, but we don't want to see it done by cutting the throats of such eminent citizens as venture to be his competitors. To be sure, Judge PACKER hates "scrambles," and generally gets office without them. Herein, also, he has the right to differ from our railway favorite, who is rather partial to "scrambles," in which he has not won a great deal of office yet. It is also true that Judge PACKER'S ambition has been often gratified, and that of our own favorite, General CASS, never. This is a good reason to us for sympathizing with the latter, but not for assailing the former.

Come, neighbor Post, let us all do the fair thing by each candidate in this "scramble," and put off the throat-cutting until after the Convention meets. You are injuring our own candidate by these injudicious attacks upon Judge PACKER, and, unless you can show a little more of common prudence, the friends of General CASS insist upon your saying nothing at all, leaving the General wholly in our hands. Everybody is sure that we will do him justice, when the time comes. The Post owes an apology to the Judge and his friends, and at once.

SENATOR BOREMAN AT HOME.

The Wheeling Intelligencer concludes an article, which very decidedly exposes the political treachery of this Senator, in the matter of the disgraceful Carlisle business, with the following paragraph:

In the short time that he has been in the Senate, Mr. Boreman has strangely disappointed the expectations of his friends. Those Republicans who approved neither his election nor the means whereby he compassed it content themselves with saying "I told you so." But there are those who rendered him important aid in attaining his present position, who are filled with amazement and mortification. To them his singular course is simply inexplicable. Whether it results from the intoxication of power and in fulfilment of the old maxim in vino veritas, or whether there is a power behind the throne more potent than the throne itself, (as in the case of Sprague,) whose promptings the visible Senator faithfully obeys, remains to be seen. At present it is enough to recognize the fact without undertaking to explain it.

THE BUTLER HOMICIDE.

Monday Morning.

Mrs. McCandless took her seat and the Court opened.

THE NEWSPAPER EVIDENCE.

The Dispatch matter came up and Mr. Thompson filed objections to receiving it in evidence, and followed them up by an able argument. Mr. McJunkin replied at some length, and Greek met Greek in a very close tug of war. Mr. Thompson rejoined. At the close of his argument the Court overruled the objection, received the testimony and submitting to the jury the facts of Mr. Graham having been in receipt of the Dispatch at that time, and of having given sufficient search to determine whether that number was in his possession at the date of the murder. The papers were offered for the purpose of proving that prisoner had access to them and that the wad found on the floor corresponds to one of them.

THE WEAPON USED.

Conrad Double recalled—He had a good deal of experience in the use of firearms; believes he examined the gun after the murder, and found it in good order. It had a load in it, and cap on it. He done this immediately after it was brought to Mr. McCandless' on the day after the murder. Does not know what kind of load was in it. Examined the cap closely. Found it bright and in nice order. As far as his experience goes, it could not have been on more than thirty-six hours, especially as the gun was loaded and the powder came in contact with the cap. Speaks of the water-proof cap. It would color in thirty-six hours. The common G D cap will color in six hours, or less time. The tube of this gun was filled with powder when he examined it. His opinion, from having examined the premises, is that it was a gun that done the shooting. A pistol would have scattered the shot or slugs farther. There are few pistols, except a navy revolver, that would hold as many slugs as were used. He calls the gun a "smooth-bore rifle." Many shot guns would scatter more than these slugs were scattered. A smooth-bore rifle scatters less than a shot gun. [Witness is shown the pistols.] He believes they are the same pistols he examined at Mr. McCandless' on that Sunday. He thinks the charge which killed the girl could not have been fired out of the largest. It is necessary to have wadding between the shot and powder. The lead was too large to have been put into a pistol of that size. It could have been used in a gun such as this one. He came to the conclusion that the small fragments of paper picked up on the floor and not preserved were parts of the wadding on top of the shot. The wad had been larger than the scrap he preserved and brought to Court. The way he knows that the other small scraps were a part of this wad, and had been on top of the shot, was that they were thrown so far into the room. [When first examined he minutely gave his reasons for believing that these scraps were parts of the wad below the shot.]

Cross-examined—Did not discover the wad he would suppose to have been above the powder. The reason he judges these fragments were on top of the shot was, that they had been driven so far into the house. The wad would be torn and scattered by being driven through the glass. Counts on the size of the gun by the size of the wad. It is the saltpetre which corrodes the cap. If the gun was perfectly dry, and the powder glazed, the cap would corrode. A gun fired off gets a smoky vapor, and a cap put on soon after it has been fired off would discolor in one hour; if put on immediately after firing it would so corrode; powder put into it would cake very soon. One shot will soil the gun barrel inside and the lock; has loaded his gun when clean, and the powder would stay clean three months and go off all right. It would not cake in a dry room. Powder in a gun will get moist; the barrel will sweat and cake the powder. Dry powder will effect the lining of the cap. Does not know the number of gun bores. He does not know that a common shot gun will scatter more or shoot three times stronger than a smooth bore rifle—depends on the manner of loading.

In Chief Resumed—After a gun is cleaned and one load fired out of it, the soil of burnt powder will not be perceptible; from eight until ten o'clock would be time enough for the smoky vaper to escape, and a cap put on at ten o'clock, at night would be discolored in the morning. (By the time this witness got through with the gun, the Commonwealth seemed to be pretty smoothly bored and to calculate that either the gun or their witness was a blunderbuss.)

Daniel Graham Jr., re-called—Was at his father's on Sabbath evening. On that and Monday evening examined the ladder. The ladder had been placed at the spring house after the rain. Saw from the mark of the ladder that there had been no rain after it had been placed where it then was. Could detect no marks at the back of the house of it having been there. The ground is slaty. Thought there were fresh marks on the side of the house. Would not be certain. Had been talking of the way the prisoner might get out of and into the house, and examined. Thought the button on the weatherboarding had been recently turned. The door was shut and buttoned. Does not know how long the ladder had been at the spring house. One might reach the button by going up the ladder four feet, if it were under the door. It opened to the outside, into a loft. A window opens from this loft to the front room, and a door goes from this room to the prisoner's bed room. The door with the button goes into the gable end of the porch loft. Has some experience in the use of fire arms; examined the gun; first place he saw it, that day, was on the road between Geo. McCandless' and the Franklin road; examined the cap; there was a little spec of verdegris on it; he took the gun from the person who was carrying it, and took it back to his father's; does not remember who had the gun when he took it. The four-shooter was not in the carpet sack when it was opened; it was shown to him by Squire Riddle; did not see one of the pistols in it; thought he had seen one of them in the sack; thinks the fatal shot might have been fired from the largest pistol. He gave a very intelligent account of how that pistol might have been loaded and made to carry such a charge as was fired; forty-eight shot could have been fired from it.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Examination of Daniel Graham—Fired two shots from the pistol since court adjourned. Had an inch of powder in it, and thirty grains of shot, some No. 1 and some No. 2 shot. It did not fill the barrel an inch. Fired at a board, about an inch thick, at a distance of ten feet. Did not examine to see how far the shot penetrated. The shot scattered over a space of from fifteen to twenty inches; took in a diameter of about that. The larger portion of the shot was nearest the center. Took no particular aim, but it struck a little higher than he thought he was aiming. The second shot had over an inch of powder in. Put in more than an inch of lead and about forty grains of shot and with a little wad on top. Filled the barrel to within an inch of the muzzle. Fired it at the other side of the board, at the same distance; it scattered about the same; aimed at a white spot and thinks the shot struck about as he aimed; shot scattered from fifteen to twenty inches; a number were close to the centre; one was about half way through the board; it was a poplar or pine board, does not know which, but was soft wood; the last shot was all No 1; thinks there were about forty; Isaac Brannon was with him; he cut one of the shot out of the board, and Joseph Davis cut one out; some of them made square holes in the board; accounts for this by the shot being compressed into such a narrow space in the barrel; thinks the fatal shot could have been fired from that pistol, and that round shot fired from it would look like slugs.

Cross-examined—Considers that that pistol would compress round shot to look like slugs, as much like slugs as the one taken from the head of the corpse. One could not tell whether the shot fired from it had been round or square. The glass would mash the shot some; did not hear it stated that one of the shot had gone through an inch door. Does not know that a shot fired at an angle through glass would lose force; thinks that pistol would inflict the wound, and was present at the examination; has used such a pistol; shot at a wagon bed, and the shot did not go through it; does not know what kind of shot was found at Mr. McCandless'; does not know that any of the shot went through a saw log. It might have gone through a saw log for any thing he knew. He fired the shots to see if he was correct as to his illustrations. He used common rifle powder. [Was exceedingly smart, rapid, ready and witty in his answers. This flippancy is quite in keeping with the general idea of fun in a probably approaching execution, which appears prominent among the witnesses.] The ladder had been at Mr. Long's. The loft door is on the north end of the house, away from the road. There is no opening from the loft but this door. [Draws a diagram of the house.] The sitting room is under this front room up stairs, through which one must pass from prisoner's room to the loft: up stairs are three rooms, down stairs but two. Under the porch loft is a lumber room, the same in which the hatchet and blacking box were kept. The front room, up stairs, is furnished with oats and corn, and is not carpeted. The loft was empty. There generally were boxes in it. Thinks there was no corn in it at that time; does not remember any corn in it or the front room then. It is a twelve-light window into the loft from the front room. The door can only be buttoned and unbuttoned from the outside. It was buttoned when he saw it. Could not say whether the marks of the button having been turned were made a month or a day before he saw them. The wall is weatherboarded and unpainted. Cannot say whether it is painted. There is no moss or fuzz on the boards. The marks from the ladder, or what he took for them, were mud, or looked like mud.

DOWN TO A FINE POINT.

Isaac Brannon, re-called.—Was present and saw Mr. Graham fire the pistol at noon; heard his testimony and agrees with him. Believes he could recognize the click of the gun he heard that evening; tries the gun and concludes it is not loud enough; tries the pistol and thinks it like the sound; thinks it had the same double click. [This witness sucks his teeth with a pleasant smack and chirp, and looks "merry as if he had meal to sell."]

Cross examined.—Gun does not make click enough, to be like what he heard that evening; thinks it was not made by the gun; does not think the gun could make the click he heard.

Joseph W. Davis, sworn—Was present when Mr. Graham fired the second shot at noon; heard his testimony and could not disagree with him; took one shot out of board; it had not penetrated far, not more than a quarter of an inch; the other he saw taken out had gone deeper, perhaps near a half inch; Mr. Graham fired at ten feet distance; the distance of the gun from the window was as great when deceased was shot as that of Mr. Graham from the board in the shot witness saw him make.

THE DISPATCH AGAIN.

J. Graham, Sen., re-called—Since Saturday there was a search made in his house for Dispatches. He did not search, but gave liberty to others. There were some papers found; none of February 2, 1861; they looked for any numbers of that year, and found two. [Is shown two papers.] These are the two papers which were found; he believes those two papers were received on his subscription; they were found in the buttery or lumber room, on top of a book case; were rolled up in a bunch of papers; thinks them Dispatches of 1861; these were all that could be found of 1861; one of them is dated Jan. 19, 1861, Vol. 8; the other Vol. 9, June 22, 1861, No. 15. Has no knowledge of them coming in any other way than by his subscription.

Cross-examined—Cannot tell how many papers were found; he did not hunt; others hunted, but did not look much; others were found of '62; cannot recollect what time in the year those '62 papers were dated; did not bring them in, because he did not think it worth while to bother; still thinks his subscription began in March or April, 1860. If he is not mistaken in the time of his subscription one of these would be after it. [Witness is all of a jumble.] Did not care about bringing any other papers; knows no way of their coming to his house but by subscription; only subscribed for one year. [More jumble, over and over, and ever so much talk.] Does not know, now, whether there were any Dispatches on the rope up stairs. [Although he stated, on his first examination, that he kept his Dispatches on the rope, he now thinks the rope was put up after he ceased to get the Dispatches. Resumed the old story with all its suppositions, and maybes, and uncertainties, and contradictions, and the old man goes to his seat looking rather crestfallen. If the reporter were conducting the defence, there would be a very determined effort to get all the witnesses, for the prosecution, back on the stand, and get them to swear some more.]

A SENSATION.

Mr. Wilson recalled—Saw some papers in the prisoner's carpet sack when it was opened, at Mr. McCandless'; he saw a pocket-book in the sack and some money that was in it. Squire Riddle had the sack; was unwilling that witness should have anything out of the sack; but handed sack out and told him to take it; he refused and only took the pocket-book. The Squire examined it; saw the money, and pulled out a little picture or part of a picture from it. He looked at it and said it was a curious picture. [Objected to.] Witness took it home. The last he knew of the picture Mr. Thompson had it; got it to look at on Friday or Saturday. Thinks it was after he was spoken to about it. Does not remember that he was told it would be wanted. [Witness is required to produce it. Mr. Thompson thinks it so important that it will take time, but promises to get it. A hush of expectation about the picture. Considerable argument about it and the propriety of 'Squire Riddle giving it to witness. Mr. Thompson promises to produce it.]

PISTOLS—INDISCRIMINATE SHOOTING.

Mr. Graham, Sen., again—Has known defendant to carry one of the pistols shown him, and sometimes the gun; but seldom the gun. Had heard him say he shot his pistol off on the road near Mr. Campbell's. He did not say for what purpose; just said he shot the load out. Jacob Campbell had reported that some one had fired at his house. Defendant said Campbell ought not to be telling the like of that. It might throw suspicion on some one; it was him who had fired his pistol near his house, just to get the load out. Cannot fix the time, but thinks it was not more than six months before the murder. Never saw him carrying arms out of the house.

Cross-examined—It was a little too common for boys to be shooting round. Campbell was blaming Piser for shooting near his house, when Taylor (prisoner) told him it was not Piser, for it was he himself, who shot that time near his house, and that he meant no harm. Mr. Graham has a pistol very like this larger one of defendant's. Has had it fifteen or twenty years.

John Stoten, re-called—Saw defendant at one time carrying a pistol past his house, carrying it out at arms length, pointed toward the house; was on the road between Mr. Graham's and Mr. McCandless', about three quarters of a mile from Geo. McC's.; defendant was coming from that direction; it was about daylight; witness was afraid to come out; the dog barked and he peeped out through the crack of the door; spoke, and defendant said "I am here;" there had been shooting and witness' house had been fired into; defendant was going toward his home, at Mr. Graham's. The dog was barking furiously; he might have been pointing his pistol at the dog; witness had borrowed Taylor's gun; Taylor came for it and got it and that night his house was fired into; it was a ball, a large revolver ball; it was taken out of the weather boarding, about five feet from a window; a second ball was fired into the weather boarding on the end of his house; saw defendant have fire arms the day he took his gun away.

Cross-examined.—It was just day when he saw defendant: knew him before he spoke; thought the dog would bite him; was close to him; does not think the ball in his house was shot out of this gun; started toward Mr. Graham's when he got the gun; it was not the next morning that he saw defendant; got it in the evening, and that night the ball was fired into his house, but it was not such a ball as could be fired from the gun.

Commonwealth rests here.

OPENING FOR THE DEFENCE.

Mr. Thompson opened the defence. Immediately after his address to the jury the Court adjourned. The belief in the prisoner's guilt appears to be nearly universal, and is a singular instance of the currents which move public opinion. The Commonwealth assumes that the prisoner burnt the barn and dug the putty off a window pane on the same night in order to make a second forcible entrance. The barn was discovered on fire, and the fire under full headway at ten o'clock. Of course the putty was not picked off after the family was aroused by the fire and must have been done before it. And one of the witnesses swears that the prisoner was in his house, a mile and three-quarters distant, at bed time; went to bed when the rest of the family did; was there in the morning as usual. Three weeks before the fire, (which was three years ago in June next,) the prisoner should have fired two shots over the bed of deceased, intending to take her life. One of the balls was picked out of the wall and was a large revolver ball. The balls fired into Stoten's house were also large revolver balls, and no attempt has been made to prove that the prisoner had any firearm that would project such balls. Other barns were burned and houses fired into, and he is charged with all, because he once joined with young Graham in asserting the innocence of his suspected guardian, Oliver Piser. It is assumed that he must have fired the balls into the wall of the bed room, because he first found the holes. He had free access to the house and went all through it without attracting any attention; came so often that Mrs. McCandless swears that up to the day of the murder she took no notice of his times of coming and going. If he was not a fool, he would naturally go to that room and look for bullet holes, after hearing of so startling an incident, and a boy of quiet habits, such as he, is just the one to have found them and pointed them out. It is beyond comprehension or belief that he could have gone to the house that Sabbath, in so slight a disguise, and did all the talking that the disguised man did, without an intimate acquaintance like the dead girl detecting his voice. It is one of the most peculiar I have ever heard, and his pronunciation differs so much from that of all the witnesses I have heard on the stand, that I think it next to impossible that he could have talked to his aunt, old Mrs. Graham, and his cousin Annie, without betraying himself by his voice. Then the prosecution has shown no motive for the murder. There is no evidence of a quarrel between him and the murdered girl. He was visiting her to the last, and if those letters contained what her sister Mary now thinks she remembers, why was not Emma Zilla called, who is said to have read one of them and brought it from the office? It is out of the bounds of belief that serious and threatening letters could have been received by a girl unaccustomed to receiving letters and nothing be said or done about it. The published account of the letters differs materially from that given before the inquest, when one would suppose her memory would have been more vivid. It is strange Mary can remember words so well and forget the color of the paper on which they were written, and whether they were on one or both sides of it. I have no doubt she remembers the letters quite different from what they really were, and the author would never be able to recognize his version. These people have talked of and dwelt on that mystery until they cannot always distinguish between what they know and what they imagine. For instance, Squire Graham, who now gives such strong testimony against the prisoner, was confident in his assertions that it was quite impossible that Taylor could have committed the crime. I do not think it possible he could have returned after starting to church, got his gun out, got to McCandless' by the time of the murder, and got the gun back to his room, the ladder brought and taken away, and all and sundry other things necessary to be done, to make all appear as it did when the news reached him.

Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—A large audience assembled at the Opera House last evening, it being the opening night of Mr. Brougham's engagement. "The Lottery of Life" was presented for the first time in this city. It will be repeated to night, and if always presented as it was last night, it might have a successful run for a month at least.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—The entertainments at the Pittsburgh Theatre continue to be of a highly interesting and amusing character, and, as a consequence, the establishment is liberally patronized. Mr. Williams, by a system of liberal management, has succeed in building up a paying business at the Old Drury, and while enjoying the results of his liberality, he continues to give such entertainments as please the public and sustain the reputation of the establishment. There is a change of programme every night, and the members of the company are all stars in the profession.

Central Passenger Railway Company.

The Board of Directors of this company have, since their organization, held weekly meetings, and are pushing the affairs of the company to the end that the citizens along the line of their road may have accommodations as good as those afforded by any passenger railway in this city.

At their last meeting one of the Directors was instructed to proceed to eastern cities and contract for six cars, to be delivered as soon as possible. In the meantime a large gang of workmen will be put to work at repairing the track and building new stables at the terminus. It is the intention of the Directors to discard the use of the old cars as fast as new ones can be obtained.

Troublesome Customers.

T. Tobias, proprietor of the Big 13 clothing store, on St. Clair street, made information before Alderman Donaldson, Saturday, against Andrew Weisner and David Polk for malicious mischief. The accused are raftsmen. It is alleged they came into the store of Tobias Saturday morning, and inquired the price of some goods, but the proprietor, believing from their manner that they simply wished to annoy him, ordered them off. They returned, however, it is said, several times throughout the day on the same errand, and at last to get rid of their attentions, he made information. The case was settled, the defendants paying the costs, and promising to cease their importunities.

—The Semi-Centennial anniversary of the Odd Fellows was observed in San Francisco with enthusiasm. A large number of Lodges from the interior cities participated in the celebration.

SHOULDER BRACES.

The value of these appliances to human health, and to promote and extend human life, can scarcely be over estimated. When we contemplate the vast number of individuals who have acquired the habit of stooping, and look at the many crooked and ill-shaped persons, the usefulness of these appliances are forcibly suggested to our minds. And it is not merely to those who suffer in the deprivation of health that we speak; thousands of others who are apparently secure in its enjoyment would be compensated a thousand times by the constant wearing one of these useful, we might say necessary, articles of human apparel. The narrow and contracted chest is as much a subject for proper physiological training as is the maintaining and keeping the stomach and other vital organs in a healthful and proper condition, to duly perform their appropriate functions. Every one understands, without a newspaper admonition, that if a leg or arm be broken, an artery severed, or a rupture anywhere shows itself, that these are objects worthy of our deepest care and solicitude. Then why not, when you observe the human body becoming incurvated, the chest contracting into an hour glass shape, and the other vital powers sinking to decay—why not seek out a remedy that will correct these growing evils, which not only concern your present ease and comfort, but likewise the future prospect of yourself and those of your immediate kindred who will one day occupy your places in life? The cost in money is a mere trifle. The remuneration to the health and strength can hardly be weighed in the same balance. It ought to be remembered that the spinal column is not only of primary importance to the physical, but likewise to the mental well being. The health of the human body is as much responsible to the position of the organs, and their being in place, as it is to physic and due regulation of diet and regimen. We have known persons, hundreds of them, with narrow and hollow chests, who scarcely took in air enough to vitalize half the blood, speedily restored to health without an ounce of medicine, so called, by the use of one of the Shoulder Braces. We have known others who have enlarged the capacity of the chest as much as six or seven inches in circumference by the same means, and who can doubt their utility in all cases where the tendency to consumption or any other of the diseases of the respiratory organs are at all imminent.

These Braces are sold and applied at, also all other mechanical appliances, at DR. KEYSER'S NEW MEDICINE STORE, NO. 167 LIBERTY STREET, TWO DOORS FROM ST. CLAIR, AND AT HIS CONSULTATION ROOMS, No. 120 PENN STREET, from 10 A. M. until 4 P. M. a|24

AN ABSOLUTE SAFEGUARD.

Invalids, broken down in health and spirits by Chronic Dyspepsia, or suffering from the terrible exhaustion which follows the attacks of acute disease, the testimony of thousands who have been raised as by a miracle from a similar state of prostration by HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, is a sure guarantee that by the same means you too may be strengthened and restored. But to those who stand in peril of epidemics, to all who, by reason of exposure, privations and uncongenial climate or unhealthy pursuits, may at any moment be stricken down, this paragraph is most particularly and emphatically addressed. You, who are thus situated, are proffered an absolute safeguard against the danger that menaces you. Tone and regulate the system with this harmless medicinal Stimulant and Alterative and you will be forearmed against the maladies whose seeds float around you in the air unseen. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are not only a Standard Tonic and Alterative throughout the United States, but they are accredited by the certificates of the most distinguished citizens of the Union, to the people of all other lands. In Canada, Australia and the West Indies, they are gradually taking the place of all other stomachics, whether native or foreign, and as surely as truth is progressive and demonstration throws doubt, they will eventually supersede every other Invigorant and Restorative now employed in medicinal practice.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, April 27, 1869.

The gold market opened again very strong at 133½ and on heavy purchases, for the sake of advancing the rates of exchange, sold up to 134, from which point it receded to 133¾. The Government having now stated the amount to be sold, parties are preparing for it by advancing quotations before the day of sale of Government gold, and letting the market drop again.

Government bonds advanced to the highest point yet reached for new bonds, 115⅝, but during the day the market reacted and although strong, dealers are careful in buying at present quotations. The expected demand for bonds from Europe is so far only discounted by foreign bankers and the demand is only speculative. The general money markets of Europe are in a precarious condition and an advance in the rate on money, at any of the money centres, would be productive of much mischief to the bond operators, who are now buying in the hope thereby to advance the price of bonds in Europe, but the advancing tendency is one great obstacle to any further rise of bonds abroad.

Stocks are feverish, although strong. The great ease in the money market gives operators all facilities to carry large blocks of stocks at small margins. At the close quotations were not sustained.

Money is easier and business is slowly reviving.

NEW YORK, April 27, 1869.

The great excitement and buoyancy on stock exchange and the large advance in prices formed the principal topic of conversation in financial circles. The speculative feeling is running strongly on the bull side and all indications favor higher prices.

Money in more demand, but plenty, at 6 per cent. on call; discounts 6@10 per cent. Sterling firm at 108⅞@109 for prime bankers. Gold stronger and opened at 133½, advanced to 134 under the high rates for borrowing, and closed at 133¾@133⅞. Borrowing rates 1-64@¼ per cent., while loans until to-morrow commanded ⅛ per cent., indicating a sharp corner is being engineered in cash gold. The Holsatia took $42,000. Clearances $61,000,000. The Assistant Treasurer has amended the official advertisement of the gold sale, reserving the right to reject any bids not in the interest of the government, and also announcing that not more than $1,000,000 will be sold in August.

Governments stronger, and at one time '67s sold at 116, but the extreme prices were not maintained. The purchases were chiefly on foreign account. Coupons of '81, 118⅛@118¼; do. '62, 121¼@121½; do. '64, 117⅛@117¼; do. '65, 118¾@119; do. new, 115⅞@116; do. 67, 115⅞@116; do. '68, 115¾@116; 10-40s, 106⅛@106¾.

State bonds are buoyant and higher: Missouri, 89¼@89½; old Tennessee, 69½@70; new, 68⅞@69; old North Carolina, 63½@64; new, 56⅞@57; old Virginia, 62¼@62¾; new, 56⅞@57; Louisiana Levee sixes, 72¾@73¼.

Stocks have been active and buoyant most of the day, New York Central rising in the forenoon to 174¾; Hudson, 155½; Harlem, 148½; Reading, 96¾; Michigan Southern, 99½; St. Paul, 77¾; Fort Wayne, 139; Rock Island, 137½; Wabash, 74, and Pacific Mail, 95⅜. Rumors of large scrip dividends on Hudson, Harlem and Fort Wayne are again current. Northwestern common was freely purchased on the belief that the semi-annual 5 per cent. dividend would be paid. After one o'clock there was a reaction, New York Central leading the market, which declined to 173½. Later in the afternoon prices rallied, and New York Central sold at 174⅛. Michigan Southern and Lake Shore were heavily dealt in, the former rising to 101½, and the latter to 100¾. At 3:20 the market was again lower, subsequently recovering, and closing firm, though not upon some stocks, to the highest figures of the day. The advance in Wabash, Saint Paul, Michigan Central and Fort Wayne was very marked, with but little reaction.

Five-Thirty Prices.—Cumberland, 30@36; Wells Express, 35⅞@36; American Express, 41@41⅜; Adams Express, 61½@62⅛; United States Express, 64½@66½; Merchants Union Express, 15¼@16; Quicksilver, 21¼@22: Canton, 62½@63; Pacific Mail 93⅞@94; Western Union Telegraph, 43¼@43⅜; Hartford and Erie 21½@23; Mariposa, 20@21¾; preferred, 43¼@43½; N. PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, April 27, 1869.

The general markets are quiet but steady, with a fair volume of business in the aggregate, while prices generally are unchanged. The demand for all of the leading articles is confined mainly to supplying immediate wants, the stringency in money matters having a tendency to squelch out anything of a speculative feeling, and, as a consequence, the operations are mostly of a local and unimportant character, round lot sales being of rare occurrence.

APPLES—Scarce, and in demand; sales at $5@8 per bbl, for common to choice.

APPLE BUTTER—90@$1 per gallon.

BUTTER—Is dull but without quotable change; sales of good to prime Roll at 35@38, and choice, in small packages, at 39@40.

BEANS—Dull at $3@3,25.

CHEESE—Sales of new Western Reserve at 15@20, as to quality, and New York Goshen at 24@25.

CARBON OIL—Is quoted in a jobbing way at 30@31.

CORNMEAL—$1.75@1,80 per cwt.

DRIED FRUIT—In steady demand but unchanged. Peaches, 14@15 for quarters and 18@20 for halves. Apples scarce and in demand at 13@15, as to quality.

EGGS—Dull, and cannot be fairly quoted above 17.

FEATHERS—A shade firmer, and we now quote live geese feathers at 80 to the trade, and the usual advance in a retail way.

FLOUR—Is quiet, with a moderate local demand, and no change to note in prices. Spring Wheat brands, $6,50@7, Winter Wheat, $7,50@8. Rye flour, $7@7,25. Fancy brands are quoted at $10@10,50, but there is little or nothing done in this grade of flour, excepting in a retail way.

GRAIN—There is little or nothing doing in Wheat and prices are entirely nominal. Oats scarce and firm at the advance; 69@70 for car load lots and 73@75 in store. Ear Corn is still reported at 80@85, and shelled at 77@80, as to quality. Rye is selling at $1,45, and but little in market. Nothing doing in Barley.

HAY—Under the influence of increased receipts the market for baled is dull and prices lower; we now quote at $28@30.

HOMINY—$5,75@6 per bbl.

HEMP—$215@220 per ton.

LARD OIL—Sales No. 1 Extra at $1,52@1,53. and No. 2 at $1,23@1,25.

MAPLE MOLASSES—Sales in gallon jugs at $1,50@1,75.

PROVISIONS—Are steady with a fair jobbing demand, but prices are unchanged at 14 for Shoulders; 16@16¼ for Ribbed, and 17¾@18 for Clear Sides; and 19¼@19½ for Sugar Cured Hams. Lard is quoted at 18¾@19, as to quality, and Dried Beef at 20½. Mess Pork $32,00.

POTATOES—Dull, with a supply considerably in excess of the demand; may be quoted at 65 on track and 70@75 in store.

PEANUTS—Quoted at 11 cts.

SEEDS—Clover Seed is quoted at $9@9,50 and Timothy at $4,75@5, and little or none in market. No Flaxseed offering.

SALT—May be quoted at $1,80@1,85 by the car load, and $1,95@2 for small lots in store.

WHISKY—Dull and unchanged.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUELDAY, April 27, 1869.

The oil market continues very quiet, and with the exception that it is a little weak, there is nothing new or important. The brokers, and with good reason, too, complain of the dullness which has so long prevailed, but it is hoped that there will be a reaction, and that, too, before long. There is an old proverb that it is always darkest just before the break of day, and it may be the stagnation which has so long prevailed, will be succeeded by an active market, though it must be acknowledged that the indications at present are by no means encouraging. There are several serious obstacles in the way of a full, permanent and healthy reaction, and until these have been removed, in some way or other, it is not likely that the improvement which has so long and anxiously been looked for, will be realized. It is to be regretted that so many of our refineries are standing idle, particularly rt this season of the year, but there seems to be no help for it.

CRUDE—The Crude market is dull and weak with increased offerings, but sellers are obstinate, and refuse to make any material concessions. Sale of 1,000 bbls spot, (40 to 45) at 15; and 1,000 next ten days, seller, at same figure. Buyers option until September may be quoted, in the absence of sales, at 17¼@17½, and sellers option all year, at 15.

REFINED—Sale of two lots of 1,000 each for April, at 32; and 500 do, at 31¾. May is quoted at 32½; May and June, at 33@33¼; and May to September, at 35½.

Petroleum Items.

The Titusville Herald contains the following late notes concerning the oil producing business:

The new well which was recently put down on Sandy Creek, about seventeen miles from Oil City, as a test well, has been pumped for about a week past without obtaining oil in paying quantities. It produced a small quantity of very heavy oil. The sand rock in which the test was made is reported to be sixty feet thick.

It is reported that the territory in the vicinity of Oil Creek Lake, on which several small wells were sunk in 1865, will be subject to a further test during the coming summer.

Two new wells on the Mill farm in the southern part of the Pleasantville district, struck about ten days ago, are now producing, but the product of them is not so large as that of other new wells in the vicinity, and they will probably not yield over twenty-five or thirty barrels per day, each.

The plan on which the new black oil territory on Holmden run, near Pithole, is to be leased to operators, is about the most sensible that has yet been adopted in leasing this kind of territory. It is to limit the number wells to one on every five acres, and to leave it to the discretion of the lessee whether he shall put down more than one well on every ten acres. If a plan like this this had been carried out in the Pleasantville district, a million of dollars would have been saved to the working interest and the same amount of oil that has been produced, would eventually be obtained. The system of leasing and selling one and two acre lots, and putting down wells on them, has been a costly one to operators.

A new well has been struck on Sage run, about two miles northeast of Oil City. It commenced pumping on Thursday last, and produced from ten to twenty barrels of amber colored oil in two or three hours, but afterward it suddenly ceased producing, although it was pumped for about a day. The tubing was withdrawn on Friday and replaced, and on Saturday pumping was re-commenced, and at one time it was yielding at the rate of forty or fifty barrels per day. Whether it will continue to produce or not is a matter which cannot be determined. It is located on new territory, is about 800 feet deep, and the oil bearing sand rock found in it is sixty feet thick. The well is owned by Messrs. McGrew, of Oil City. The striking of the well has created considerable stir among operators in Oil City and vicinity, and quite a number of persons visited it on Saturday. It is located on the line of the supposed oil belt running between Oil City and Scrubgrass, or some other producing place along the river.

—On Saturday night the clothes of an adopted daughter of Edward Hilton, of North Oxford, Massachusetts, took fire while going to bed. The girl was burned to death, and the house and barn adjoining consumed. Loss $2,500

Location of Oil Refineries.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Since the recent disastrous fire at the Messrs. Forsyth's refinery, the people of Allegheny, and more especially those in the vicinity of oil refineries and storage tanks, have become seriously impressed with the danger these institutions threaten them. That the best managed and best constructed refinery is dangerous in the extreme, and especially so when located in the midst of a dense population, there can be but little doubt. Sooner or later, we will find them, one by one, perishing by fire. Fortunate, indeed, when this happens without the loss of life, but how seldom is this the case. The question naturally suggests itself, what is to be the remedy in this matter. So far as new refineries and storage tanks are concerned, the remedy is simple and easy. Let our Councils prohibit their future erection within the city limits, and also any future extension of the old establishments. We would have our Councils prohibit the storage of these dangerous oils in large quantities. We do not deny, this may seem arbitrary, and may work hardships; but shall we wait until squares of valuable property are reduced to ashes, and scores of human lives sacrificed? Already the people of Allegheny have moved in this matter, by petition to their city Councils. It is hoped this subject will receive the deliberate investigation and early action its importance demands.

Yours, &c.,
SIXTH WARD, ALLEGHENY.

—Rev. J. C. Lovejoy has been removed from the Custom House at Boston, and his place has been given to Charles L. Mitchell, a member of the Massachusetts Fifty-fourth Regiment, who lost a leg in the service of his country, and was one of the first two colored men ever elected to the Legislature.

—A prize fight took place on Monday morning, twelve miles from Richmond, Va., on the York River Railroad, between Charlie Doherty, an Irishman, and Tom Hammond, an Englishman, for three hundred dollars a side. Eighty-six rounds were fought in two hours and ten minutes. Doherty won.

—Daniel D. Page, who died in Washington on Saturday was one of the oldest citizens of St. Louis. He was the second Mayor of the city, serving from 1829 to 1833, when St. Louis contained but seven thousand inhabitants. Mr. Page was the senior member of the once famous banking house of Page, Bacon & Company.

—A private letter states that on the 1st inst., the schooner Ella M. Pennell, of Machias, Maine, while in British waters off the Great Bahama Islands, was fired at and brought to by a Spanish war vessel, and her papers and cargo examined. Finding the Pennell had nothing contraband aboard, the Spaniards permitted her to proceed on her voyage without further molestation.

—The earnings of the Kansas Pacific Railroad for the first fifteen days of April were $102,000, exclusive of contractors' freight, being an increase of $33,000 over the same period last year. The business of the road is growing rapidly. Settlers are pouring into that part of Kansas in great numbers, and some counties on the line of this road have doubled their population within a year.

—The Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco have memorialized President Grant by telegraph, urging him, in view of the industrial and commercial necessities of the Pacific coast and country at large, to withhold the commissions of the new appointees to the Mint until the present stringency in the money market has abated. Senators Stewart and Casserly are also requested to submit to the President the protests of bankers and merchants telegraphed them against any change of Mint officials.

—An Ottowa (Canada) dispatch states: Mr. Galt made a long speech in the House of Commons, supporting his motion relative to Fenian raids. He made an addition to his previous motion, so as to include the correspondence between Canada and the United States during the rebellion. He defended, at great length, the policy of Canada, and closed by saying the course of the United States government appeared to be dictated by a desire to bring about the humiliation of England, through her dependencies on this continent, but he did not believe the plan would succeed. England would not for a moment give way, and the people of Canada would sustain her to a man. Having repudiated the idea that the policy of Great Britain toward the Dominion was one of the abandonment, Mr. Galt closed, amid loud cheers.

About two sections of the Montgomery avenue sewer, one of the longest in Allegheny, remains to be completed.

Returned.—Albert, Dilworth, Esq., the well known oil dealer, returned home yesterday from a wedding tour in Europe. Mr. Dilworth has been absent several months.

Committed.—Henry Ernest was committed to jail, yesterday, by Justice Stevens of Banksville, Union Township, on an information for surety of the peace, preferred by his wife Lucinda Ernest.

Personal.—Mr. Charles Lockhart, of the firm of Lockhart & Frew, contemplates making an extended tour through Europe, accompanied by his family, the present season. The party expect to sail about the middle of next month.

The Board of Managers of the County Agricultural Society will hold a meeting this morning at ten o'clock at the office of Phelps, Parke & Co., Sixth street. The question of holding a County Fair will probably be settled at this meeting.

Severe Injury.—Monday afternoon, Willie Erhardt, a lad about ten years of age, fell into the sewer excavation on Montgomery avenue, near East Commons, and suffered a severe fracture of the right leg, below the knee. He resided in the Third ward.

"Who Killed Him!" is the title of a sensational story about to be published in "Twelve Times a Year," a literary magazine of Louisville. It is from the gifted pen of Bartley T. Campbell, Esq., formerly of this city, an author who is steadily working his way to fame and reputation.

The Shrievalty.—The name of our worthy fellow-citizen, John H. Hare, Esq., will be presented for the office of Sheriff, subject to the nomination of the forthcoming Union Republican County Convention. If nominated, Mr. Hare will prove a formidable candidate, and if elected, a worthy, capable and efficient Sheriff.

Still Another.—Yesterday morning another insane German was arrested and taken to the lockup. He was found wandering about in the vicinity of the Minersville car station, in the Thirteenth ward, by officers Early and Bell, who conducted him to the lockup. Mr. Fortune was notified, and will have him removod to more comfortable quarters to-day.

St. Agnes' Church Fair—Will close on Saturday evening next, when many valuable articles will be disposed of by chance and ballot. The vote up to last evening on the Gold-headed Cane, for five of the most popular candidates for Sheriff, stood—Ross, 272; Stubbs, 260; Hare, 250; Fleming, 212; Herron, 201. Sealed ballots will be received on this article up to 9½ o'clock Saturday evening.

A New Establishment.—Mr. R. A. Cameron has opened a book and stationery store and news depot at No. 12 Federal street, Allegheny. He has on hand a full stock of books of every description, his stock of stationery is unequaled by any other in the city, and all the latest magazines and periodicals will be found on his counter. Persons in need of books will find them at this establishment as cheap as they can be obtained in the city.

A Knock Down.—James Dempsey, a huckster, yesterday morning, knocked down Lewis Treser, a butcher, in the Allegheny market. The parties had some difficulty in relation to a business transaction. An officer happening in the vicinity opportunely, prevented a continuation of the scuffle, by arresting the twain. Mayor Drum fined the demonstrative huckster five dollars, and discharged the butcher, it appearing that he had not endeavored to provoke a quarrel.

Personal.—In a St. Paul, Minnesota, exchange we find the following personal notice of a worthy young gentleman formerly of this city: "Mr. Edward McCullough, late with the firm of Noyes, Pett & Co., formerly of this city, and for six years in the drug house of Fahnestock & Co., of Pittsburgh, will leave here in a few days to establish himself in the drug business up at the enterprising young 'city of the Lake' Du Luth. His numerous friends wish him a full measure of thrift and success."

Personal.—We had the pleasure of receiving a call, yesterday, from Mr. John C. Niall, the accomplished traveling agent of the great drug establishment of Seward, Bentley & Cheney, Buffalo, New York. Mr. N. is on business connected with the house he represents, and we bespeak for him a generous reception by our druggists. Messrs. Seward, Bentley & Cheney are proprietors of several standard preparations of decided merit and efficacy, and should fully appreciate an agent so capable of introducing them as Mr. Niall.

Alleged "Shovers" Arrested.

James Brown and William Gordon were arrested last night on a charge of attempting to pass counterfeit money, and were locked up for a hearing. It appears they went into a saloon in the Diamond and called for something to drink, presenting a counterfeit twenty dollar bill in payment. The bar keeper refused to change the bill, whereupon they produced smaller change. Officer Garrison was called by the bar keeper, informed of the transaction and requested to arrest the parties, stating that he would appear at the Mayor's office and make a charge against them this morning. When brought to the office, the men stated that they had come down the river on a raft, and the one who claimed the counterfeit twenty dollar bill stated that he had got it from his his employer.

Grand Division Sons of Temperance of Pennsylvania.

This body will hold their quarterly session in this city, commencing this (Wednesday) afternoon, at Mozart Hall, Seventh avenue. A large number of delegates are expected to be in attendance.

In order to give the public an opportunity of hearing some of the best temperance orators in the State, Division 42, of this city, has arranged for a public meeting to be held in Mozart Hall, Seventh avenue, this evening, at 7½ o'clock, to which all the friends of the cause are invited. Seats free. The following ladies and gentlemen, always foremost in aiding any good cause, viz: Prof. Lawton, E. E. Rinehart, F. Rinehart, S. Williams, B. Cuthbert, Misses Rinehart, Good, Mrs. Harton, and others, will be present and sing several favorite pieces.

Louis Lane, the Wife-Poisoner.

To-morrow, at noon, Louis Lane, the murderer of his wife by the administration of arsenic in repeated doses, will die on the scaffold in the yard attached to the jail. We visited him yesterday, in company with several other representatives of the press, for the purpose of holding a final interview with the unfortunate man. He was more than usually reticent, but declared himself ready to meet his fate. All efforts to draw from him some account of his life were futile, as he would not enter into conversation. He was asked if he had any parting words to say to the people through the press of the city, and quickly replied, "I have none. They can't do me any good or any harm, and I have said all I'm going to say. I have said enough about my case already, for I am to hang for it, and that's all." In response to the assertion that he had had fair trials, the prisoner bitterly and sarcastically remarked that he had anything but fair trials. He knew his attorneys had done all they could for him, but he had'nt received a fair chance. He said he was well cared for and comfortable, and that he was expecting his son every moment to arrive from Cleveland.

The prisoner is in much better condition now than he has been for several weeks past. He was somewhat depressed in spirits yesterday, owing to the non-arrival of his favorite son and to the near approach of his doom. He impresses us very much as a wicked, bad man, who has lived a life full of sin and misery. He has just enough intelligence to conceive, carry out and conceal a crime. The entire absence of moral courage in his character has prevented him from ever openly committing any of the sins laid to his charge. He can neither read nor write and is more cunning than intellectual. There is mischief in his small, restless, bright eyes which can never be caught meeting those directed towards them, and his whole countenance, when closely studied, presents no redeeming feature. If permitted to live we might safely venture a policy of twenty years on his life, as he is active, wiry and well preserved. He is daily attended by Rev. Father Kerr and the Sisters of Mercy. He expresses sincere belief in the Catholic faith and has been admitted into full communion, having satisfied his spiritual adviser that his contrition is hearty and sincere. He will be executed about half-past twelve o'clock to-morrow, in the presence of not more than fifty witnesses, which will include the Sheriffs' jury and representatiues of the press. The scaffold will be put up to-night, and will cover the same spot as that occupied by the old one from which so many misguided human beings were launched into eternity.

It is a matter of impossibility to furnish any precise or extended history of the life of the prisoner, as he is friendless here, and unwilling to impart any good or bad information about himself. We believe he was born between fifty and sixty years ago, in Waterford, Loudon county, Virginia. He left there in 1846, and came to Wellsburg. Subsequently he resided in Wheeling, and then in Washington, Pennsylvania. He has been married six times, and five of his wives are dead, all but one having died under suspicious circumstances, and three of them under circumstances that were exceedingly so. For the murder of his sixth wife he is to suffer death to-morrow. The fifth one escaped, and succeeded in sending her husband to the Penitentiary for six years. She is now living in Brownsville, is in good health, and will doubtless live to hear of her wouldbe widower's death. No doubt can be entertained of his guilt in the crime for which the law inexorably demands his blood. In Friday morning's paper we will present the full particulars of the last chapter in the life of Louis Lane.

The Fifth Avenue Bank of Pittsburgh.

Last night, in the hall at the corner of Pride street and Fifth avenue, agreeably to notice, a large number of prominent gentlemen residing and doing business on and contiguous to Fifth avenue, assembled together for the purpose of effecting a banking organization for their own and accommodation of the neighbors with much needed financial facilities. The meeting organized by calling Samuel Morrow, Esq., to the chair and electing Mr. R. A. Schnabel as Secretary.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The Constitution, a carefully and wisely framed document, was read article by article and needful amendments admitted, after which it was adopted as a whole. The subscription book to the capital stock was opened and two hundred and eighty-four shares were at once subscribed, the takers being principaliy business men of the avenue. The terms are so easy and the prospects so bright for the new bank that not many days will be needed for the full amount to be taken. The capital stock is fixed at $100,000, divided into one thousand shares at one hundred dollars, par value, each. Ten dollars per share is to be paid at the time of subscription and one dollar per week thereafter on each share subscribed. The investment must prove a good one, and those of our friends desiring to secure the advantages offered should at once subscribe, as, our word for it, the stock will not long go begging on the market. The books will remain open for subscription at the following times and places till the next meeting, which is called for next Tuesday night, at the room where session was held last light.

Wednesday, April 28th, at the office of the National Coal and Coke Company, corner of Fourth avenue and Try street.

Thursday, April 29th, at Stokely's drug store, corner of Fifth avenue and Elm street.

Friday, April 30th, at Emil Poerstel's tobacco store, No. 231 Fifth avenue.

Saturday, May 1st, at McIntyre's drug store, corner of Pride street and Fifth avenue.

Monday, May 3d, at Frank Seiberts' grocery, No. 299 Fifth avenue.

Tuesday, May 4th, at Alderman Morrows, Fifth avenue, opposite Chatham street.

Alleged Rape.

Monday morning, Mrs. Ann Elizabeth Geary, a widow residing on Saw Mill run, about a mile and a half from its junction from the Ohio river, came to the Mayor's office and made information charging Theodore McDonald, a coal miner, with rape. She alleges that he came to her residence about half-past nine o'clock Saturday night and demanded admittance, but she refused to let him in. He succeeded in gaining admittance, however, by forcing the door open, as she alleges, and then compelled her by threats and force to submit to his desires. A warrant was issued and an officer went in search of him, but failed to find him.

The Relief Fund—Final Report of the Distributing Committee.

Reese, Graff & Dull, submit for your examination a final report of their labors. In presenting this final account of our work, it seems but just to the Young Men's Christian Association, the Aquilla and Priscilla Society, the Episcopal Church Guild, and a number of citizens who have given largely of their time and means to aid us, that a brief history of our labors should accompany the foregoing statement. This Committee was appointed at a public meeting held in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association on the afternoon of November 9th, 1867. Measures were taken at once to collect funds in aid of the sufferers, and this Committee, provided with the means for supplying immediate relief, visited the scene of the disaster and entered upon the discharge of their duties. Although under the guidance of persons connected with the mill, scarcely one-half the parties injured were discovered the first day. The employees of Messrs. Reese, Graff & Dull were so widely scattered throughout the Fifth and Ninth wards, the boroughs of Lawrenceville, Etna, Sharpsburg and Duquesne, that nearly a week elapsed before we could make out a complete roll of those needing aid. As soon as the dead were decently buried out of sight, and the most pressing wants of the injured supplied, the manner and amount of regular aid which should be rendered in all cases, engaged our careful attention.

Messrs. H. A. S. Dudley, Superintendent of the Lake Superior Copper Works, Colonel Joseph Kaye, Foreman at the Fort Pit Foundry, and John H. McElroy, of the Iron City Works, presented the plan which was adopted, and adhered to throughout the year, save in a few exceptional cases.

As the aid bestowed by the public was mostly in cash, the above named Committee recommended distributions in money, and in the following manner:

Weekly benefit to each wounded man	$5 00
Weekly benefit to wife of wounded man	3 00
Weekly benefit to children 10 years of age	2 50
Weekly benefit to children under 10 and over 5 years of age	2 00
Weekly benefit to children under 5	1 00
Weekly benefit to widow	5 00

Expectional case arose now and then, requiring special adjustment, but the plan, as a whole, commended itself to the entire committee, and was followed with but rare deviations until the funds were exhausted.

The settlement of funeral expenses was intrusted to a sub-committee who called upon each of the undertakers in person, and save in one instant they were kindly received and very liberal deductions made by them in the bills as rendered. They will accept our sincere thanks for their generous course.

The adjustment of bills for medical attendance, again called to our aid the rare judgment and ready kindness of Messrs. Dudley, McElroy and Kaye. Much time and labor were spent in the endeavor to so systematize the rate of charges, as not to work absolute injustice to any of the attending physicians. They were then severally visited by Mr. Dudley, and true to the instincts and practice of a profession that calls forth more of generous self-sacrifice than any other, they all, without exception, either reduced their compensation to minimum rates or gave generous donations in cash, as equivalent. The chairman of this committee is cognizant of a large amount of gratuitous service from various physicians, and he would add his hearty thanks to them for frequent assistance in a field of labor not entirely familiar to him at the outset.

Four of the eleven married men who were killed left homesteads, upon which there were mortgage encumbrances varying from $100 to $425. After much discussion and a careful examinstion of each case it was thought best to give the widows free homes, and the mortgages were accordingly paid.

In the report of the President of the Young Men's Christian Association, at its annual meeting in November last, the following statement was made: Subscribers to this fund whose aggregate subscriptions aeached the sum of $4,500, authorized the Board of Directors, in writing, to use some part of their subscriptions for other cases of distress occasioned by accident, if they should deem it proper. Three hundred and twenty dollars have been thus used, strictly, we believe, in accordance with the spirit in which the subscriptions were given. No funds since that time have been appropriated.

The Committee take pleasure in acknowledging their indebtedness to the managers of the Catholic Orphan Asylum in Allegheny, and to the Sisters at the St. Franciscus Hospital at Lawrenceville, for valuable aid in their work. The time and the physical strength of the Chairman, were, as was to be expected, largely drawn upon during the first six months, but the modest thankfulness of some of the sufferers, and their evident desire to render his labors both light and pleasant, repaid him for the outlay. While it may be true that about the usual amount of greediness was developed, and care had sometimes to be taken "to defeat the wrong as well as to defend the right," yet his experience upon the whole was pleasant enough to cause the remembrance of disagreeable incidents to fade rapidly out of memory.

The Committee expected, when they consented to take charge of the charity, that much patience would be needed, and that they would meet with adverse criticism, kindly or unkindly given, and they have not been disappointed.

The work might have been given into abler hands, and without doubt the labor more wisely bestowed. We only claim to have served to the best of our ability, and the grateful thanks of those benefited repays us fully for our outlay of strength and patience, and the commendation of the worthy gentlemen who have at various times audited our accounts is sufficient answer to all else.

Very respectfully,
On behalf of the Committee,
E. T. COOK, Chairman.

To Messrs. Barclay Preston, Joseph Dilworth and David Robinson, Auditors appointed by his Honor, Mayor Brush.

The undersigned Committee, appointed as above stated, report that they have examined the accounts and vouchers of Mr. W. M. Claney, Treasurer, and Mr. E. T. Cook, Chairman, of the Distributing Committee, and find them to be correct and true. The disbursements have been regularly and judiciously made, and the Committee, it seems to us, have been governed by a spirit of liberality towards the sufferers, while at the same time executing with entire fidelity the trust imposed upon then by a generous public. When the donors to the fund note that for nearly eighteen months weekly or semi-weekly payments were made to between seventy and eighty persons; that many of these had often to be visited at their homes, and this was all done at an expense to the fund of less than half of one per cent. upon the amount contributed, we are confident they will unite with us in tendering to Mr. E. T. Cook, upon whom the burden of the work fell, and the Young Men's Christian Association, through whom it was accomplished, our most hearty and grateful acknowledgments.

JOSEPH DILWORTH,
BARCLAY PRESTON,
DAVID ROBINSON,
Auditing Committee.

In a New Place and Ready for Business.

Our competent and worthy friend, Alderman Joseph A. Butler, after a brief term as Chief-of-police, a position which he creditably filled but resigned to resume his more congenial office duties, has opened out a new suite of rooms on Wylie street, a few doors below Washington street, where he is ready to resume the large legal business hitherto directed towards him as an Alderman and Justice of the Peace. His offices, both public and private, are models of neatness and ensure much better facilities for the transaction of his large patronage. He will attend to all lines of legal business, such as drawing deeds, mortgages, bonds, depositions, making collections on book accounts, and general civil duties he is authorized by virtue of his office to discharge. He will keep the department of criminal law a specialty, and endeavor to promote the ends of justice in all cases brought before him. His police are shrewd, careful, active, intelligent and sober, and form important auxiliaries to the success of the office. We can commend Alderman Butler to our readers in our heartiest terms, having known him long and well, as a fair dealing, courteous and responsible magistrate and business gentleman.

Alleged Garroter Arrested.

About three weeks since, David Croxton was attacked on Washington street, in the vicinity of the Elevator, by two men, who garroted and robbed him of a small sum of money. Information was made before the Mayor against "English Mike" and James Guest, by Croxton, charging them with highway robbery. "Mike" was arrested, and after a hearing committed to jail for trial in default of bail for his appearance at court. Search was made for Guest, but it was ascertained that he had left the city. He returned a few days since, however, and officer Dressler, who had the warrant for his arrest, hearing of the fact, went in search of him, and arrested him at his residence on Foster's alley yesterday. He was placed in the lock up, and will have a hearing this morning.

A Saloon Row.

On Monday evening, between eleven and twelve o'clock, a party of young men entered the saloon of Fred. Kafer, on Ohio, near Webster street, Allegheny, and commenced acting in an uproarious manner. The proprietor endeavored to put them out, but in the attempt was assaulted, knocked down and badly beaten. The wife of Kafer also was abused by the parties, who finally ended the scrimmage by smashing some of the furniture of the establishment. Information was made against them yesterday morning by Kafer. Two were arrested, Robert Otterson and Joseph Kennedy. They were fined ten dollars and costs each, which they paid. Warrants were issued for the arrest of the others.

Notice to Travelers.

On and after Monday May 3d, Samuel Hare and Son will run a line of coaches on the "Havelock" route, from McDonald Station on the Panhandle railroad to Washington, Passengers going to Washington by this route can procure through tickets at office of above named railroad company. Mr. McCoy of Canonsburg will also run a line of Hacks from Canonsburg, connecting with the morning and afternoon trains at McDonald's Station.

PITTSBURGH, April 26, 1869.

"A Stitch in Time,"

At any time, and at all times, can be taken by any one possessing a Weed Sewing Machine. 'Tis not a "chain stitch" or a "knot stitch," a "loop stitch" or a "double and twisted loop stitch," but a simple, practical, beautiful "lock stitch," the most durable and economical of all that are made. Another very material inducement to purchase the Weed consists in the easy terms on which it is sold. Call and examine it at the store of R. H. Long & Co., Agents, No. 116 Market street.

Queensware.—There is one feature of the stock which Beggs & McGraw have now on hand at their store, No. 10 Diamond, Allegheny, that merits special attention, and is generally and deservedly admired by all. We refer to the large assortment of Queensware, Glass and Toilet ware, which will be sold at the lowest eastern prices, at No. 10 Diamond, Allegheny.

Remnants of dress goods, silks and poplins and wool goods, cheap at J. M. Burchfield & Co.'s.

Mr. Asa L. Waugaman, the genial and popular host, has thoroughly remodelled and refitted the saloon and restaurant, No. 44 Smithfield street, and opened a choice lot of wines and liquors at his bar. Drop in and see him.

Inventions

Are the order of the day, and it so happans that others than the real Yankee are sometimes successful in inventing useful and general articles for the public good. An article in the shape of a car ceupling, patented March 23d, 1869, the invention of Isaac V. and William J. Lynn, two practical mechanics of this city, has been thoroughly tested during the past six months, and as good judges have pronounced it the most simple and practicable coupling of the day, the attention of railroad men is called to the description given below. This coupling has neither springs, dogs, nor cranks. Its principle consists in having a pin 2⅛ and 1⅛ and 9 inches long, suspended between two pieces of wrought iron with an attachment T shape, termed the pedestal, and then secured by a pivot. The simplicity and practicability of its working makes it superior to all so far made public, not only on account of its being a real saving of life and limb and an invaluable agent in the saving of time, but also in the saving of pins, as they cannot be lifted out.

For example, two cars are linked, and to uncouple and couple only one handling of the pin (which at all times remains in position for use) is needed, as there are angular opening made in the body of the coupling sufficiently roomy to admit of the pin, with its pedestal being drawn over the link, and when drawn up the pin with pedestal stands perpendicular. As soon as the pin is in position the link, on which the raised pedestal stands, can be readily drawn from under it, and when drawn the pedestal drops into a small socket standing ready for coupling. The mouth of the coupling is bell shaped, and in using two of the same kind the one coupled will hold the link straight out by the weight of the pedestal, being in a horizontal position, and whenever a coupling is desired, without any aid, the pin being in position, the cars can be instantly coupled in a slow or quick manner. The fact cannot be denied that coupling is dangerous, and, as is then, now in reality a cheap and safe preventive against life and limb, together with great advantages for saving of time. Railroad men would do well to examine Lynn's Automatic Patent Pedestal Car Coupling. A momentary examination will show its advantages. It is so simply and strongly constructed that the pedestal cannot be injured, and it can be used in connection with the most ordinary kind on cars varying five and six inches in hight, and with crooked links. John J. M'Cormick, of this city, is the assignee and general manager.

Invigorating and Refreshing.

Exercise in the open air, morning walks, tonic bitters, and a hundred other things are represented as invigorators, and for aught we know may be, but if any of our readers desire something of an invigorating and refreshing nature we take pleasure in referring them to the Continental Dining Saloon, Fifth avenue, next door ta the Postoffice. A meal prepared in this establishment, over which Mr. Holtzheimer presides, is highly invigorating to a weak stomach and the most refreshing thing imaginable to an empty one. Try the remedy and you will abandon morning walks, gymnastics, tonics, &c.

Deliciously Medicinal.—This is the universal verdict pronounced upon PLANTATION BITTERS by all who have tried them. The well-known health-promoting ingredients from which they are made, and their invaluable merits as a remedy for indigestion and all its consequent ailments, and the preventive qualities against diseases arising from climatic changes, miasmatic influences and imperfect secretions, are so widely known and so honorably endorsed, that we trust no one will forego the advantages of their use.

MAGNOLIA WATER.—Superior to the best imported German Cologne, and sold at half the price. TH.S.T.F.

New Books and Where to Get Them.—To persons desiring to purchase books of any description, either new or second hand, superior inducements are offered by Col. J. D. Egan, Sixth Avenue, near Smithfield street, whose book and periodical store is filled with one of the largest and best selected stocks of books and stationery in the city. His stock of Sunday School library books is exceedingly large, and they are being sold at half the usual price. He has also a large lot of second hand books, comprising many rare and valuable works, which will be sold exceedingly cheap.

The Premium Trunk Factory, No. 104 Wood street, continues to attract throngs of customers each day, offering unequaled bargains ts wholesale and retail customers.

At the popular "Corner Dry Goods Store" of Richard Deakers, Fifth avenue and Grant street, will be found a splendid stock of carpets at very popular prices, such as might have been considered cheap previous to the war. The stock is large and the selection fine, and we urge our lady readers to visit the carpet room of the Corner Dry Goods Store before purchasing elsewhere. An admirable stock of dry goods has also just been received and offered at the usually reasonable prices which have long made the house popular.

Get a good trunk or valise when you are purchasing and you will never regret it. Liebler, No. 104 Wood street, sells the best in the market at the cheapest rates.

Elegant Furniture and New Carpets at Auction.—On Thursday, April 29, at nine o'clock A. M. and 1½ P. M., at Masonic Hall Auction Rooms, 55 and 57 Fifth avenue, will be sold an elegant assortment of fine furniture, new and second-hand carpets and household goods. See advertisement of H. B. Smithson & Co.

The best evidence that trade is lively in the city is adduced from the fact that Leibler, No. 104 Wood street, is driving an immense business in trunks, valises, carpet bags, etc., all of which of course he sells at lowest cash prices. Give him a call.

It is a fact that Leibler, No. 104 Wood street, rules the trunk trade in the west. He sells at wholesale and retail prices which defy competition. Readers in need of anything in the line should not fail to pay him a visit.

The great auction sale of fine lace goods, embroideries, trimmings, and notions generally, still attracts hundreds of bargain seekers at W. W. Moorhead's, No. 81 Market street.

Have you ever tried the Excelsior browned coffee, put up in pound packages by the Iron City Spice Mills, Fifth avenue, near High street, and for sale at the groceries? It is the best article in the market.

The purest spices are those manufactured at the Iron City Spice Mills of Morledge & Strickler, Fifth avenue, near High street, and for sale by grocers.

Hoop Skirts and Corsets, closing out at very low prices. No. 52 St. Clair street. J. M. Burchfield & Co.

Ladies' Spring and Summer Suits.

There is one feature of the stock which Messrs. Bates & Bell have now on hand at their store, 21 Fifth avenue, that merits special attention, and is generally and deservedly admired by the ladies. We refer to the large and varied assortment of black silk, poplin, linen and alpaca walking dresses, and we feel warranted in stating that it is one of the most attractive ever exhibited in this city. It comprises ready made suits in all the late French styles and designs which are, perhaps, far superior to any we can produce in Pittsburgh, in regard to accuracy of fit and general gracefulness. The silks are very beautiful, and with their different shapes and trimmings, present a charming variety to the purchaser. The poplin suits represent every shade of color, and are all neat and tasteful. They range in price from $22,00 upwards and are in great demand. In a notice, yesterday, we referred to the handsome linen seaside suits, and to-day we have only to repeat that nothing at once so cheap and so well adapted to summer wear has been offered here for many seasons. They are complete in every respect, and yet sell so low as $18,00. In the line of alpacas there is a display of almost equally attractive suits. Of the various imported goods we have mentioned, Messrs. Bates & Bell have large assortments, ready made-up and fit for immediate wear. They represent all that is fashionable or fresh in Paris or the East, and are finer than can be produced here. Those, however, who desire to leave orders for suits will have a choice and extensive lot of fabrics to select from and some of our best home modistes who are in the service of the firm to prepare them. We will close by noting that in the cloak room, yesterday, we were shown no less than thirty different styles of black silk mantles, cloaks and sacques, each one apparently outstripping the others in elegance and richness, as they were successively exhibited. They ranged in price from $10,00 to $65,00, and are chiefly imported from the leading European houses. There is one new style among them, the sleveless basque, which is particularly noticeable for its novelty and beauty. Ladies know where to go for goods of this character.

Chapped Hands, face and all roughness of the skin, certainly cured by using the Juniper Tar Soap, made by Caswell, Hazard & Co., New York. It surpasses all other remedies as it will prevent roughness of the skin if used during cold weather. It is easily applied, avoiding all the trouble of the greasy compounds now in use. It can be used by ladies with the most tender skin, without irritation or pain, making it soft and clear. Sold by the druggists generally. wT
